Controls Soon As Possible

President States They Will be Put on as Are Deemed Necessary

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—(AP) — President Truman said today across-the-board price and wage controls are going to be put on wherever necessary and possible as soon as it can be done.

He told a news conference the administration is working with that in view.

Mr. Truman noted that it would require legislation to clamp controls on food, but said that as soon as it is physically possible wage-price controls will be set wherever it is legally possible.

Asked if he would seek to amend a 1950 law which restricts controls on food prices, Mr. Truman replied by suggesting that reporters wait for his "State of the Union" message next Monday.

Mr. Truman will deliver this message in person to a joint session of the Senate and House.

It is customary for the state of the union message to sketch in broad outlines what the President wants from Congress.

The 1950 defense production law, which gave Mr. Truman the wage and control powers, stipulates that price ceilings on farm products must not be lower than (A) the highest prices in the month before the war in Korea or (B) "parity" prices — whichever were higher. Parity is a standard set by federal farm laws and declared to be fair to both farmers and consumers. The parity price rises and falls with changes in the prices of things farmers buy.

Some labor unions have contended the restrictions on ceilings for farm prices make it impossible to have effective control of food prices.

Living Cost Prices

Mr. Truman remarked during his discussion that rising costs of food had contributed to the rising cost of living.

The price-wage subject was brought up by a reporter who asked whether any action was in view on them.

The President replied that the administration is working on it constantly and that such controls would be put on where necessary, as fast as physical arrangements could be made to get it done.

Before there can be across-the-board controls, he said, an amendment to the defense production act will be required for controls on farm products.

Then he repeated that price and wage controls would be put into effect as soon as it was physically possible.

The President was pressed by one reporter to tell why it has taken "so long" to set up wage and price controls.

This reporter asked whether Mr. Truman would tell the American people why.

Yes, the President said, he would tell the American people, but not here (at the news conference).

He emphasized that eventually it would be necessary for full, across-the-board controls.

As for rationing, he said we will have to cross that bridge when we get to it.

He said that rationing would require control of food prices which he said contribute so heavily to the rise in the cost of living.

Out Of Port Near To Seoul

Withdraw From Inchon, Taking To Ship as the Naval Guns Boom

INCHON, Korea, Jan. 4—(AP)—United Nations forces protecting the supply port west of Seoul withdrew by sea tonight while naval guns shelled the path of the approaching Reds.

Even as men and equipment were still pouring aboard ship, Army demolition experts were setting off thunderous charges that left the railway yards and docking facilities in flaming ruins.

The enemy would not be able to find a thing it could use.

The explosions along the waterfront rocked the deserted city.

Towering flames lit the ship-filled harbor.

The troops who boarded ship were for the most part the men whose job it was to keep the port operating to handle Allied supplies.

They had been on duty here since Sept. 15, when the United Nations troops stormed ashore and wrested the strategic port from North Korean Communists.

Rear Adm. L. A. Thackrey, senior officer of the U.N. naval forces off the west coast, said:

"Our job so far has been carried out smoothly and efficiently, and if all goes well we will have all of the men and equipment safely out of here before the night is over."

His ships have been standing by off Inchon for several weeks to provide naval support for ground troops fighting ashore. They also have transported thou-

Dr. Stauffacher Injured in Fall

Dr. C. Gordon Stauffacher suffered a fracture of his right wrist Wednesday night when he slipped and fell at his home, 820 South Osage avenue. The accident occurred about 10:00 o'clock.

Dr. Stauffacher had started to leave his home to go to his car parked in the back of the residence and as he stepped out the back door, the top step being icy, he slipped and fell, falling down several steps.

He went to the Bothwell hospital where X-ray pictures revealed the fracture. Dr. John E. Lamy adjusted the fracture.

Dr. Stauffacher is not confined to his home.

Dr. Collins to Missouri Valley

MARSHALL, Mo., Jan. 4—(AP)—Dr. M. Earle Collins will assume the presidency of Missouri Valley college Jan. 29, succeeding H. Roe Bartle.

Since 1932, Dr. Collins, 47, has been president of Tarkio college where he had a splendid record. Five new buildings were erected there in his administration, a $200,000 debt was eliminted and the endowment was doubled to a total of $750,000.

Dr. Collins, who has a wife and four children, will get $10,000 a year and a residence as head of the Presbyterian school here. He will have a faculty of 58 and 553 students.

A graduate of Cedarville (Ohio) college, Dr. Collins later studied and taught at Ohio State university.

Bartle, Kansas City Boy Scout executive, has been president of the school without salary since 1948. He filled in while a successor was sought for Dr. J. Ray Cable, former president.

Find Mrs. Alice Klein Dead

Body Found in Eating Place by A Delivery Man

Mrs. Alice Klein, 49, 114 East Fourteenth street, was found dead about 10:32 o'clock Wednesday night, just inside the front door of the Ranch House, an eating establishment at Ninth street and Limit avenue. She had been dead for sometime before her body was found.

Ernest Hopper, a driver for a Marshall packing company, discovered the body when he stopped at the place to make a delivery. Hopper told the police that he had not intended stopping, until Thursday morning, but as he was in the vicinity decided to check to ascertain if the Ranch House needed any meats.

He said it is customary for him to drive up and go into the rear door and as he stepped inside and walked into the front room of the building he saw Mrs. Klein lying on the floor , her head and body against the front door. He then called the police and an ambulance. Both McLaughlin and Ewing ambulances answered the call.

Coronor Was Called

Upon the arrival of the police they found Mrs. Klein was dead and called for the coroner. Dr. C. Gordon Stauffacher, coroner, was unable to answer the call because of an injury to himself and Dr. E. L. Rhodes, acting coroner went to the place. Doctor Rhodes after viewing the body and making an examination said death was due to natural causes.

The body was then sent to the McLaughlin Funeral Chapel.

Mrs. Klein had been employed at the Ranch House for the past two months and prior to that time worked at the Crown Drug store as a fry cook.

Mrs. Klein was born just east of Syracuse on July 13, 1901, the

One Hauling Mule 36 Years Old Retired

HARDIN, Mo., Jan 4—(AP)—A Missouri mule has been retired after 31 years hauling ore in a mine northeast of Hardin.

The mule's owner, Pearl H. Edgar, claims the 52-inch high animal is 36 years old and deserves a rest.

Land Secured For 'Muny' Airport Here

Plans Approved By CAA For Its Being Established

After many months of negotiating, including meetings with representatitves of the Civil Aeronautics administration, the Division of Resources and Development of Missouri, various property owners and the representatives of the City of Sedalia, purchase has been made of necessary land for the new Sedalia Municipal Memorial Airport.

Announcement was made today by Emery L. Ellsworth, chairman of Public Buildings and Grounds committee of the City of Sedalia, who has been handling the matter for the city, that final payment has been made by city counsular, Chester Wolfe, and himself to owners of land located east of Sedalia, namely Mrs. Talbie Williams, J. F. Richardson and Walter Rissler, executor of the late Belle Stephens estate.

Ellsworth reports the purchase of 10 acres of land from Mr. Richardson for $2,000; 80 acres from Mrs. Williams for $16,000, and 55.5 acres from Belle Stephens estate for $11,000, a total of 145.5 acres for $29,000.

Part From Government

Ellsworth said the Federal Government will pay for 25 per cent of the cost of the land, however, a bill is now in hands of President Truman increasing this to 50 per cent. "If this is allowed it will enable us to put more money into the improvement of the airport," said Mr. Ellsworth today.

The new site for the airport is located ½ mile east of city limits of Sedalia on highway 50, , section 1, range 21W, township 45, and city water will be run out to the airport, one-half of the cost to be paid by the government.

Plans and specifications were received this week and same are being checked over by Ellsworth's committee.

Buildup Proposed

The plans, which have been approved by the CAA call for an asphalt runway, modern up-to-date administration building with lobby that can be used for class rooms, etc., hangars and large parking space.

Ellsworth recently was in receipt of metal boundry makers,

Wary of Wife With a Cudgel

LISBON, Ohio, Jan. 4.—(AP)—A motorist pulled into a gasoline station, sneaked a note and a dollar bill to the attendant.

The attendant read it, then phoned police. Police stopped the car on the road to East Liverpool and found the man's wife in the back seat holding a kitchen chair leg with a bent nail in the end. They waved him on, after disarming her.

The note read: "If I go over 50 miles an hour, she waves that club over my head."

Lisbon police reported today they did not get the driver's name.

Not Bomb Without Sanction

UN Approval Be Required on Any Intent as To Red China

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—(AP) — President Truman said today United States forces will not bomb China without United Nations sanction.

He made this clear at a news conference in which he again expressed hope that a third world war can be avoided this year.

He also said, in response to questions as to what point would have to be reached before he would have to consult Congress on a declaration of war, that if the proper time arrived, the proper action would be taken.

He hopes the time will never come when he would have to ask for a declaration of war, he said, adding that the time has not come yet.

He said the action in Korea is proceeding under the direction of the United Nations and this country is always willing to negotiate.

But, as to the Russian reply to a proposal for a Big Four foreign ministers conference, he said he would stand by Secretary of State Acheson's statement yesterday.

Secretary Acheson said further clarification is needed as to what the Russians are proposing. He said the Russian note appears to only restate the Soviet position that the ministers should meet to discuss German questions.

Not Formally at War

Mr. Truman emphasized that the United States is not formally at war, and he added we are carrying out our obligations to the United Nations.

At the Pentagon today, Secretary of Defense Marshall said the situation in Korea is developing "almost exactly as anticipated and that U.N. forces have been deployed to meet this situation."

Marshall also said that the U.N. force in Korea had in many instances been fighting against "almost incredible" manpower superiority of the Communists.

In a statement on Capitol Hill today, Senator Bridges (R.-N.H.) proposed that the United States "should either open a second front in China, by backing a Chinese Nationalist invasion, or we should immediately withdraw our forces from Korea."

"We have had enough talk and enough debate," Bridges said. "I

May Re-establish State Guard

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 4—(AP)—Missouri's old war-born state guard may be re-established within the next few months, Adj. Gen. John A. Harris said today.

Harris, brigadier general of the national guard, said re-activation of the old state militia will depend on whether the 35th division of the national guard is called into federal service during the present world emergency.

He said his plans for the state guard are based on an expectation the 35th will be mobilized within the next few months. But he has had no word from Washington that mobilization will be ordered for the famed division in which President Truman served as a captain in World War I.

Under Missouri law, the governor can order establishment of a state militia upon the recommendation of the State Military council. General Harris said his outline for re-activation of the guard will be submitted to the council for its consideration about the middle of this month.

Should the council act favorably, its recommendation would be passed along to the governor for his action if and when the 35th is mobilzed.

Hint of Battles Ahead For Missouri General Assembly

By Larry Hall

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 4—(AP)—You can say what you want to about the Missouri legislature later. And you probably will.

But right now it seems determined to buckle down to work, get the job done and go home.

That was the dominant note yesterday as a serious 66th general assembly got itself organized, heard Gov. Forrest Smith's message, then went home until next week.

The governor set the stage in his message. He called for a short session and unity in these troubled times. And that struck a response in many of the legislators' comments about the speech.

Some held back, hinting of trouble for the administration program in the months to come That's natural because the party division is fairly close, the governor is in the final two years of his term—and those 1952 elections loom ahead.

Red Chinese, After the Capture of Seoul, Push Past City Afire

Menace Allies in Retreat in Attempt To Drive Them to Sea in Advance

By the Associated Press

Great hordes of Chinese Communists pushed past blazing Seoul today in an attempt to trap retreating Allied forces and drive them into the sea.

For the second time in seven months the capital of South Korea was in Communist hands. The Reds also seized Kimpo airfield, one of the most valuable in Korea.

General MacArthur's headquarters called attention to the dangerous breakthrough in central Korea where an estimated 180,000 Chinese and Korean Reds were driving towards Wonju, 55 miles southeast of Seoul.

It was a black day for United Nations arms.

If the Communists capture Wonju they will be in a position to cut off the western flank of the U. S. Eighth army and menace the main route to Pusan, old beachhead supply port in southeast Korea.

If this main central artery is cut, allied forces west of Seoul could be forced to withdraw by sea at Inchon, Seoul's port where MacArthur staged his brilliant amphibious landing and clinched a major allied victory a few months ago. At that time the Korean war seemed in its final stages.

But now a United Nations fleet stood off the west coast ready to evacuate UN forces south and west of Seoul.

U. S. Eighth army headquarters said the Communists were across the Han river one and two miles west of Seoul. It is 18 miles from Seoul to Inchon.

Attack Road Blocks

Two allied roadblocks were under attack. Their locations were not given. The laconic Eighth army report said the enemy was very aggressive.

The Korean Red radio at Pyongyang said the Communists were engaged in a terrific battle to annihilate "the enemy along the entire length of the 38th parallel."

Allied reports on the movement of battle were vague. The Eighth army said Wednesday a general withdrawal was in progress along the entire 150-mile line stretching across the peninsula.

MacArthur reported a raging battle in central Korea, southwest of Kapyong. The Communists have pushed past Kapyong and Chunchon in their forceful drive to split the entire Eighth army and drive its left flank into the Yellow sea.

Evacuation from Inchon would be a difficult operation because of enemy pressure and a 28-foot

Sgt. Delmar Cole Reported as Missing

Sgt. Delmar Cole, a former Sedalian, with the 25th Division in Korea, has been reported missing since November 28, according to a message received by his mother, Mrs. Mary Shriver, of Arbela.

Sgt. Cole had his arm wounded in Korea and had been returned to the front lines after recuperating. He served during World War II and reenlisted two and one-half years ago.

He is the grandson of Mrs. Flora Robertson of Dresden and a sister of Mrs. Helen Thompson of Kansas City.

Claude McGee To be Executed After Midnight

Killer of Convict Was Also in A Kidnaping

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 4—(AP)—A kidnaper and two-time murderer was resigned today to death in Missouri's gas chamber shortly after midnight tonight.

His last chance for life went glimmering today when Gov. Forrest Smith said he would not intervene.

The doomed man is 38-year-old Claude McGee, sentenced to die for the prison killing of a man convicted as his accomplice in an earlier slaying, John Manor of Cape Girardeau.

McGee beat Manor to death with a claw hammer in the prison yard Jan. 10, 1948. McGee said he was acting in self defense, that he and Manor had been feuding a long time over $20 McGee owed the other convict.

He and Manor entered prison in 1937 on conviction in Mississippi county for murder. They received life terms.

Kidnaped Insurance Man

Oct. 31, 1945, McGee and another prisoner, Bert Ivan Grimm, escaped by hiding in an empty coal hopper and hitching a ride outside the prison walls. They kidnapped a Jefferson City insurance man and left him bound and gagged in an old barn west of Sedalia. McGee received an additional 12-year sentence for the kidnaping.

After he was given the death sentence two years ago in Cole county circuit court for Manor's killing, he appealed to the Missouri supreme court. His execution has been postponed several times.

Prison warden Ralph N. Eidson said McGee asked for stewed chicken and hot biscuits for his last meal late today. Eidson said McGee would be baptized into the Baptist church this afternoon by prison chaplain Frank Chase.

The slight dark-haired convict has been in trouble frequently, even in the penitentiary. Once he was punished for gambling inside the prison walls. During his trial in circuit court here for the Manor slaying, he made a dash for freedom. He was caught on the courthouse lawn.

Of middle height when he entered the prison 13 years ago, he weighed 146 pounds. His weight has dropped slightly during his years behind the walls.

Dying Seoul Ablaze Viewed From the Air

Bridges Blasted By Allied Troops Moving South

By William C. Barnard

AN AIRBASE IN KOREA, Jan. 4—(AP)—Seoul died quickly, loudly and spectacular. We saw it from an airplane.

The Chinese Communists moved into the South Korean capital today as Allied troops blasted the last escape bridges out of the city.

A great pall of smoke hung over the city. It rose from demolition explosions and scores of scattered fires.

Lt. James A. Diebold of Louisville, circling low over Seoul, commented:

"The city is crawling with Chinks. They are running up and down the streets."

Diebold said the Chinese used mortars and small arms fire as they moved in on Seoul, adding:

"They came over the hills and they are swarming like ants over the racetrack east of the city."

He said Allied fighter planes, whipping into the smoke pall bounced "in and out of the stuff like rubber balls thrown into a tank of water. I stayed up out of their way, waiting my opportunity to go down while they plastered the enemy."

Lt. A. M. Vanam of Sacramento, Calif., and I flew over the city as low as 50 feet.

Draft Call to 1,976 in State

That Number be Required in Ones to Report in March

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 4—(AP)—Missouri has been asked to supply 1,976 men for the army in the March draft call—the biggest monthly call since the start of the Korean war.

State selective service headquarters announced the figure today. It compares with a February call of 1,928 and a January draft of 1,956.

Since the draft system was revived, Missouri has been asked for a total of 10,874 men, including the March quota. All the demands so far have been filled ahead of time.

Selective service officials said the March allocation to counties will be on the same basis as before, except for minor adjustments. County quotas are based on the proportionate number of men registered.

Four more young men left for the United States Navy early today, three from Sedalia and one from Versailles. The young men are to report to the St. Louis Recruiting Headquarters, where they will be examined and inducted into the service. From there they will be sent to either the Great Lakes Naval Training station near Chicago, or to the naval training station at San Diego, Calif. They are, left to right: Charles W. Bolton, Jr., 400 West Fifth street, who will go into naval aviation; James Weimholt, 103 East Twenty-eighth street, to be assigned; William "Bill' Aven, 511 West Fifth street, who will enter the naval electronics school; and Bobbie Dean Lee, Versailles, to be assigned. Red Cross Assists Blood Mobile

With a total disregard of prevailing weather conditions, ice, snow, freezing rain, wind, and the prediction of more and worse to come, seventeen Red Cross volunteers left Sedalia early Wednesday morning for Jefferson City to assist the Blood Mobile from the St. Louis center in taking donations from the boys at Algoa Farms. Displaying the usual splendid co-operation with the Red Cross, the Missouri Pacific railroad took the registered nurses, nurses aides, staff aides and canteen directly to Algoa, thus avoiding the confusion of interim transportation from Jefferson City. The volunteers returned home last night late—but successful. Special mention is made of Mrs. John Coffey, Spring Fork, and Mrs. John W. Sanders, Green Ridge, who made the long, slick trip in from their respective homes. The following volunteers responded to the call:

Canteen: Mrs. H. F. Rapp, Mrs. H. J. Stubli, Mrs. Robert Hogan, Mrs. D. C. Davis, Mrs. Harvey McFarland. Nurses' Aides: Mrs A. A. Studebaker, Mrs. Alice Bailey, Mrs. Bessie Sheets, Miss Rosalie Mountjoy. Staff Aides: Mrs. Georgia Holbrook, Mrs. R. W. Rapp, Mrs. Marvin Klein, Mrs. Henry Niemann. Registered Nurses: Mrs. F. I. Lawrence, Mrs. John Coffey, Mrs. Carl Siegel, Mrs. John W. Sanders.

The sincere appreciation of the chapter is extended to these fine volunteers.

By RICHARD A. MULLENS
NEA Special Correspondent

This article explains how to report income from personal services—wages, salaries, tips, commissions, and any other compensation received for working for someone else. It tells you what types of income are not taxable and do not have to be reported. And if you are a veteran of the Korean fighting it tells you how to figure your tax.

Most employes have part of their pay withheld for income tax. If your employer has been taking out money from your pay for taxes, he is required to furnish you, by Jan. 31, a Withholding Statement—Form W-2. You should have one of these forms from each employer who withheld taxes during 1950.

Each form will show your total income from an employer, including your wages, bonuses, commissions, vacation allowances and retired pay. It will not, however, show tips received direct from customers.

When you (and your wife, if you are filing a joint return) have received a W-2 form from each of your employers during 1950, you are ready to fill out that part of your return shown here.

Print your employer's name and address, using one line for each employer. Then copy opposite the employer's name how much tax he withheld and your total income as shown on the Form W-2. If you received tips, report the amount on a separate line under the employer's name. Be sure to attach the original copy of each Form W-2 to your return.

Some persons receive pay for personal services that is not subject to withholding. Domestic servants, farm hands, casual laborers and a few others do not have taxes withheld from their pay.

If you received any income for work from which taxes have not been withheld, print your employer's name and address and report your total income in the right hand column of the return. Jane Public received $50 for jury duty in 1950. It was not subject to withholding so she reported "0" in the column for withheld tax and $50 in the total wage column.

When you have all your income from work listed on the form, you still are not through with that part of it. The law allows a deduction for certain expenses incurred in earning a salary. The next article will explain what expenses can be deducted on the first page of your return. Note how Jane Public reported her deductible expenses on the form printed here.

Now let's take a look at a list of income items that do not have to be reported for taxation:

Money received from accident or health insurance policies, including workmen's compensation.

Gifts. (If you do any work for what you receive, it is not considered a gift. Rewards are taxable, and so are prizes won on radio and television shows of a commercial nature. These are discussed below.)

Social Security and Railroad Retirement benefits.

Value of quarters provided by a parish for clergyman. (But rent money given him is taxable as salary.)

Value of quarters provided by employer when it is necessary for you to live in to do your job properly. But quarters provided for worker's benefit, or principally for worker's benefit, or as part of his wage, are taxable at fair rental value.)

Value of meals provided when you work overtime without extra pay, or if meals are provided to have you on call during meal time. (The fair value of other meals provided by employer is taxable as part of your wages.)

Value of clothing provided by your employer for his own reasons, if such clothing is not used when you are not working.

Members and veterans of the armed forces and their families should not include as taxable income:

Rental or quarters allowance.

Rations or subsistence allowance.

Government contribution to family allowance.

Pensions and disability compensation to veterans and their families.

Disability retirement pay. (But retirement pay based on age is taxable.)

Educational, vocational, unemployment, rehabilitation, and other benefits paid by the Government to veterans under GI Bill of Rights.

Mustering-out-pay.

If an enlisted man was in Korea, the pay for any month he was there is not taxed. An officer gets $200 knocked off taxable income for each month or part of a month in Korea. The withholding statement furnished by the armed services will automatically exclude the proper amount of pay earned in Korea.

The average person won't have to worry about the tax on a prize from a radio or other giveaway contest because he won't win one. For those lucky few who do, however, the test of whether the prize is taxable appears to be this: If you pay any money, make a bet, compete against somebody else in skill or knowledge, supply a slogan, answer questions, endorse the sponsor's product—or do anything else to make the program a success so that people will listen—then your prize is taxable. If it is in merchandise you should report the fair market value.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of 15 authoritative, easy-to-follow articles in NEA's 10th annual Income Tax Primer that gives the average taxpayer expert advice on handling every item of his return with the least effort, greatest accuracy — and minimum payment. It's written by Richard A. Mullens, ranking Washington tax authority who's a graduate of the same training course given Federal agents who scan your own return. As in all other years, it has been prepared in consultation with Bureau of Internal Revenue experts.

Tax Primer Q. & A.

Q. I lost the Form W-2 given me last July when I left a job. What should I do?

A. Ask the employer for a copy.

Q. I was an enlisted man in Korea for two months of 1950. The Army sent me a Form W-2 for 1950 showing taxable income of $1050. Do I subtract 2 months pay from that and report the rest?

A. No, you should report the full amount. The Army is supposed to subtract combat pay before sending out the Form W-2.

Q. I am a waiter in a restaurant. Why should I report tips?

A. Because the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, like everybody else, knows waiters get tips.

Pleasant Green School Program

The Pleasant Green school, in the LaMonte Reorganization No. 4, presented a Christmas program Friday, December 22 at 8 o'clock.

The building was decorated with a white Christmas tree on the floor and a snow city.

The program was opened by a welcome by Gladys Eckhoff. Dialogues and readings were presented, but the main feature was a pageant, "When Christ Was Born," presented by the entire student body: Mary, Donna Jean Hontz; Joseph, Wilma June Fry; Inn Keeper, Wayne Templeton; Helpers in the Inn, Evelyn Fry, Larry Templeton, Herbert Fry; Shepherds, Jimmie Files, Johnny Eckhoff, Charles Von Holten; Wise Men, Dorothy Yankee, Gladys Eckhoff, and Cully Scott; Angels, Alice Marie Chevalier, Goldie Fry, Marilyn Rittman, Betty Templeton.

The pageant included three scenes: First scene, In the Inn; second scene, Shepherds on the Hillside; and third scene, In the Stable at Bethlehem.

The background was blue paper with three large camels facing the star in the east. A blue lighting system was set up which was very impressive. Spot lights were thrown on the chorus, who sang at certain places during the pageant.

The play was presented at the LaMonte Methodist church December 24 at 7:30 o'clock by the Pleasant Green school assisted by the Bleak Mount school. Two choirs robed in red capes on either side of the auditorium, sang the carols.

Dinner For a Wounded Marine

Cpl. James R. Jackson of the U. S. Marine Corps, arrived Saturday, December 23, to spend a 30-day furlough from the Navy hospital on Mare Island, Calif. Cpl. Jackson was recalled to active duty September 13, 1950 and was sent to the Korean front with the First U. S. Marine division.

He was wounded soon after he joined the First Marine division, and upon recovering, was assigned to the Second Marines of the Tenth corps. He was again wounded during the Red Chinese drive and was evacuated by air to Tokyo, Japan. He was then taken to California, arriving December 17.

During World War II Cpl. Jackson served three and one-half years in the Pacific area with the Third Amph. corps of the Sixth Marine division.

Cpl. Jackson was guest of honor at the annual family Christmas dinner given by his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Frownfelter, route 2.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Oehrke, Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Jackson and daughter, Brenda Gayle, of Smithton; Mr. and Mrs. "Bill" Jessee, of Sedalia and Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Lewis, of Kansas City. Mrs. A. W. Oehrke is also a sister of Cpl. Jackson and L. V. Jackson is his brother.

Against a background of white Christmas trees, wrought iron seven branch candelabra with white burning tapers and bouquets of white gladioli and white pompoms, Miss Edwina Lee Baldwin, daughter of Mrs. Cleon Edward Baldwin and the late Mr. Baldwin, became the bride of Melvin Leroy Peterman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Peterman of Rich Hill. The ceremony took place at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, December 23, at the chancel of the First Christian church of California, Mo. The double ring ceremony was read by the Rev. M. L. Jeffers, pastor of the church. Miss Mary Hert, organist, played a program of wedding music and accompanied Miss Marylin Hall, of Rich Hill, cousin of the groom who sang, "Because."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, R. E. Baldwin, wore a gown of white taffeta fashioned with a basque bodice and a deep v-shaped yoke and long sleeves of French lace which tapered to points over her wrists. Her full skirt flared into a chapel train and the fingertip veil of French nylon bridal illusion was attached to a Juliet cap of taffeta and net trimmed with bugle beads. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses with showers of white ribbon.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Kenneth Rohrbach of Independence, wore a gown of yellow taffeta with half hat and mitts to match. Her bouquet was of orchid gladioli. The junior bridesmaids, Miss Carolyn Baldwin and Miss Eleanor Hert, nieces of the bride, wore gowns of pink and green taffeta, respectively. They were styled alike with double berthas of the taffeta and sashes which formed large bustle bows. They carried bouquet of pink gladioli. Miss Janet Baldwin, niece of the bride, and Miss Sally Jo Hall, cousin of the groom, lighted the candles. Their gowns were of fuschia and aqua taffeta with flat bows of black velvet at the points of the berthas in the back. They wore wrist corsages of orchid and pink gladioli. Raymond Peterman served as his brother's best man.

The ushers were: Wilbur Schmoll, Versailles; Paul Peterman, Rich Hill; R. L. Hert and Clark Craghead, California. A reception was held at the bride's home from 3:30 until 5 o'clock The bride's table was covered with a white maderia cloth and centered with the three tier wedding cake decorated with a wedding bell and lilies of the valley. The cake was wreather with mistletoe and flanked by lighted tapers in crystal holders. Miss Laura Meyer, aunt of the bride, met the guests at the door. The parents formed the receiving line with the bride and groom.

Miss Vera Carpenter of Jefferson City had charge of the guest register. Mrs. R. E. Baldwin and Mrs. Bernyce Bailey poured. Mrs. Clark Craghead and the junior bridesmaids served the cake. Mrs. Raymond Peterman, Miss Marylin Hall and Miss Sally Hall assisted generally.

The bride's mother wore a dress of smoke grey matelassa and the mother of the groom was dressed in coffee brown. Their corsages were of pink camellias.

Mr. and Mrs. Peterman left for a honeymoon in New Orleans, La. Mrs. Peterman chose a suit of forest green with brown accessories and a brown top coat for traveling. For the past seven years Mrs. Peterman had been secretary to Mrs. Bernyce Bailey, superintendent of the Moniteau county schools. Mr. Peterman, a graduate of Central Missouri State college at Warrensburg, has been music director in the California public schools for the past five years. He plans to complete his work toward his master degree in music at Northwestern university, Evansville, Ill., next summer.

Upon their return the couple will be at home in an apartment in the Herald building.

The marriage of Miss June Branch, daughter of Mrs. Mable Branch of Fulton to Mr. Ted Mummert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Mummert of Fortuna was solemnized at 2:00 o'clock Friday afternoon, Dec. 22 at the home of Rev. and Mrs. E. E. Hannon in Fulton. They were attended by Mr. Don Branch, brother of the bride and Miss Joyce Hannon.

A reception was held at the home of the bride following the ceremony. After a short honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Mummert will be at home in Peoria, Ill., where Mr. Mummert is employed.

Calvin Mummert and daughter Mrs. Vent Thomas Drake attended the wedding ceremony and reception.

Mrs. C. L. Momberg, 1315 East Thirteenth street, has returned from Kansas City where she attended the wedding of her granddaughter, Miss Alice Louise Arnold, to Mr. Dell C. Kjer. The marriage took place at 4:00 o'clock Friday afternoon, December 29, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin E. Arnold.

Dr. W. Ross Edwards read the double ring service before the fireplace which was decorated with magnolia green, white chrysanthemums, gladioli and candelabra. The white tapers were lighted by Miss Grace Carolyn Wisdom.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. S. Y. Vetter and Mr Carl Wisdom sang "I Love You Truly."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a cruiser blue suit with pink and brown accessories and a corsage of white brassititium orchids.

Mrs. Robert Judson Smith of Lima, Ohio, was matron of honor for her sister. She wore a beige crepe dress with gold accessories and a corsage of red camelias.

Mr. Richard Bietzel of Belcourt, N.D., nephew of the bridegroom, was groomsman.

Following the ceremony there was a wedding supper at the 'Tea House by the Side of the Road," for the bridal party and members of the families. A reception was held in the evening at the home of the bride's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Kjer left for Denton, Texas, where Mr. Kjer is assistant professor of education in North Texas State college. They will be at home at 2014 West Hickery street, Denton, Texas.

Improvement Cited

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—(AP)—What is the proof that you are better fed than your grandfather? That improvement is a common claim today, but it's very uncommon to hear any reasons why.

The Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station says that the average American has increased in size in the last 75 years; young people are taller. The station also cities the better distribution of milk and milk products, the wider use of fruits and vegetables and the inclusion of vitamins and iron in certain reinforced foods as proof that we are better fed today than in the old days.

One of the governor's biggest gaols is to get more gasoline tax money for highways. House Speaker Roy Hamlin (D.) of Marion county pledged to do his best to reach the goal.

"You know I have a personal reason for wanting to get the roads improved," he told reporters.

His daughter was killed in a highway accident recently and his former wife was hurt.

The governor also injected a human note in his speech. He noted that the accidental death of Sen. Yewell Lawrence (D.) of Bloomfield had cast a pall over the assembly's opening. If Missouri highways and traffic laws had been better, he said, Lawrence might not have been killed.

Some Have Reservations

While leading Democrats generally approved the governor's program, Republicans had reservations about it.

Rep. W. D. Cruce (R.) of Cedar county, House minority leader, called it "a shotgun proposition' He said the governor overlooked some important issues.

In the Senate, Sen. R. Jasper Smith (R.) of Springfield, minority leader there, exclaimed "shades of an austerity program." He said the speech sounded to him like "business as usual with all the fancy frills and furbelows."

Most of the legislators who commented agreed that the problem of highways and defense needs would be high in the list of legislative priorities.

Sen. William O. Sawyers (D) of St. Joseph, a new member, said he was glad the governor "emphasized the necessity for national security as overriding any state program."

Two Republicans gave a preliminary peek at future battles.

Rep. J. A. Gray (R.) of Atchison county said he hoped the governor would not consider 30 per cent as a fair interest rate for the small loan legislation he recommended. Smith suggested no special rate.

Sen. C. R. Hawkins (R.) of Brumley said he thought the governor should have recommended changes in the state utility anti-strike law to prevent "Christmas gifts" of $50 a day to Vance Julian, head of the state mediation board.

That's what Julian was paid recently for operating the St Louis and Kansas City street car systems as the state's agent.

Rep. Delton L. Houtchens (D) of Henry county, young floor leader for House Democrats, bore down hard on his hopes for a short session. His goal is to get everything done in four months, which would be the shortest in years.

"With the world situation what it is, I think we can do more good at home than we can here in Jefferson City," he said.

Rep. Fred Ray Columbo (D.) of St. Louis, House appropriations chairman, agreed. As a starter, he said, most of the money bills are ready to be thrown into the hopper when the House reconvenes next Tuesday.

The civil defense budget is still undecided, he said.

The Senate reconvenes Monday. One of the first items of business will be a resolution by Senator Smith calling for a special committee to consider a contest over the second district seat in St. Louis.

Sen.-elect David A. Hess, Democrat, was sworn in to represent the district yesterday. But former Sen. Milton F. Napier, Republican, has filed a contest. He claims Hess ran illegally while not living in the district.

Both Republicans and Democrats say they want the issue settled quickly.

FIRST AID FOR THE BOMBED—Mrs. Edward Chapin, Jr., left, aided by Helen Permut, demonstrates a new type of first aid pad for use on burns or other injury resulting from bomb attack. Developed by the armed forces and recommended by Civilian Defense agencies, it consists of a cover of fine gauze padded with cotton linters and cellulose sheeting. Its purpose is to keep air from a wound until doctors can apply medication. The dressing was unveiled in Washington.

Britain Has Commuter Problem

LONDON —(AP)— British railways, whose suburban rush hour headaches rival those of New York's metropolitan area, has tossed out the double-deck car and plumped for longer trains.

An experimental double-decker has worked on southeast London's most crowded lines for a year. Scientists who kept tabs on its performance said:

Passengers who have to clamber through its narrow aisles and up and down steps take longer to get on and off; smaller seats and lower headroom on each deck give the passenger fewer comfort-producing cubic inches. And many underpasses and tunnels are too small for the oversize double-decker.

British railways will try to solve its problem with 10-car trains instead of eight-car ones—but it'll have to lengthen dozens of station platforms to fit.

Montana has coal reserves of 222,000,000,000 tons.

normal tide. A fleet under Adm. L. A. Thackery was ready for such an emergency. Allied warships pounded the Communists pushing down the west coast towards Inchon.

The Communists' first attack came New Year's Eve. A second and more deadly offensive opened up Wednesday morning. Its unexpected fury appeared to have caught allied forces off balance since the Chinese, fighting without effective air support, usually drive forward at night to avoid the harassment of allied planes.

The strength of the attack was far greater than at first supposed. AP correspondent Stan Swinton reported the order to abandon Seoul — which has now changed hands three times in the seven-month war — came as a complete surprise to allied front line units. They had just been told to hold the ancient capital at any cost.

The United States delegation at Lake Success was reported continuing its efforts to have Red China tagged as the aggressor in Korea as a forerunner to imposing sanctions on the Peiping regime. But there was little prospect of any speedy direct action by the United Nations against the Communist Chinese. The UN political committee met yesterday and called another session for tomorrow.

Crippled Father Saves His Family

MANCHESTER, Eng., Jan. 4—(AP)—A one-legged man saved his wife and two children from burning to death today by catching them as they dropped from a second floor window of their blazing home.

He was Joseph E. Rushton, 41, who gets around on a peg leg and crutches.

He stood outside the bedroom braced himself on his crutches and deftly fielded his children — Christine, two, and Irene, three— as his wife dropped them out o window.

Finally he caught his wife and hobbled to turn in a fire alarm.

sands of Korean refugees out of the war zone.

More than 10,000 were moved out tonight (Thursday), and the rescue job still was on.

Take Equipment Aboard

Two LST's (landing ships, tanks) were still in the process of loading late tonight.

Their blunt noses were pushed against the shore as soldiers and vehicles went aboard.

These last two ships were at the mercy of the ebb tide. It left them on sloping mud flats.

The tides at Inchon are among the highest in the world. There is a difference of almost 30 feet between high and low tide.

The next tide would roll in at 2 a.m. Friday. Until then the two ships would remain marooned, but they were armed and ready to fight.

Admiral Thackery was confident the ships would get to sea safely, although he rapped on wood as he spoke.

"We have our defense perimeter around the harbor and the ships are well armed," he said.

"The cruiser Rochester is firing now and other warships in the harbor are in position to open up whenever necessary.

"We will get out all right," he said.

The naval guns could easily send shells along the road between Inchon and Seoul as far iniand as Yongdongpo, across the Han river from Seoul.

Many of the ships had been loaded for days with vehicles, tanks and other war equipment.

Where they are going is a closely guarded secret. The final day of loading was done under gray skies. The weather was cold but not bitter. There were no major bobbles, but the last hours were feverish.

Land Secured For 'Muny' Airport Here

as well as a 55-ft. tower with beacon light, light bulbs and globes for the makers ,etc., from the C. A. A. and state of Missouri. It is estimated this would run in the neighborhood of $2,000 if purchased today, and will be a great asset to the airport for night flying.

It is expected bids will be asked for shortly covering the airport in general by Consulting Engineer William H. Guhman of St. Louis.

Ellsworth reports splendid cooperation from the C. A. A. in Kansas City and the airport committee of the State Division of Resources and development in Jefferson City as well as from the land owners throughout these past months.

Plans are to continue to maintain the use of the present airport near Dresden until the new field is ready. The new owner of the present field has consented to let the city use this site until the new one is completed.

Members of the Building and Grounds committee for the city in addition to Ellsworth, are Harry Moore, alderman from the first ward and Walter Smethers, alderman from the second ward.

propose some concrete action for a change."

The New England senator said the cream of Chinese Communist military power is committed to Korea and added:

"If we exploit this situation at once by supporting a second front the Communist gamble in Asia will fail and China can be re-won for the free world."

Mr. Truman refused to make any comment at his news conference on the military situation in Korea.

He did tell questioners that the United States does not now have under consideration the idea of asking United Nations permission to bomb Communist China.

It was here that the President added that he sincerely hopes that we can stay out of war this year.

At the same time, the President said that the appointment of an ambassador to Franco Spain did not contemplate inclusion of Spain in the mutual defense assistance program.

Her mother, a sister and two brothers preceded her in death.

Funeral services will be held at 2:00 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the McLaughlin chapel. The Rev. Clem Morse, pastor of the Pacific Heights Baptist church, will officiate.

Seek Supposed Mass Killer

Blood Stained Car Found in Ditch Near Tulsa, Okla.

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 4—(AP)—The trail to a possible mass killer was uncovered today as officers intensified a search for a missing Illinois coupe and their three children.

The lead came from two motorists who reported to Osage County Deputy Sheriff Warren Smith and newspaper reporters they were hailed by a man at the spot where the family's blood splotched automobile was found.

The car, discovered by authorities on a backroad near the city's outskirts Wednesday noon, belonged to Carl Mosser, 35, well-to-do Atwood, Ill., farmer. In it were bloody clothes, a blood-stained pocketknife and several exploded .32 caliber cartridges.

A search was started at once for the bodies of Mosser, his wife, Thelma, 29, and their children, Ronald Dean, 7, Gary Carl, 5, and Pamela Sue, 3.

The family was reported traveling to Albuquerque, N. Mex., to visit Mosser's twin brother, Chris, an army lieutenant.

An oil company employe who asked his name be withheld because it is against his company's rules to give rides in a company car, reported today a man was sitting in the Mosser car when he drove past it at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Asked For Ride

The motorist said the man asked for a ride to get help to pull the vehicle from a ditch into which it was backed.

"He was extremely nervous," said the informant. "I told him I had a car-telephone and we would call a wrecker, but he declined. He asked for a lift to the nearest telephone."

The motorist said he let the man out at a drug store in a near-by shopping center.

Charles J. Berkey and Mrs. Marie Hogue, employes at the drug store, said they recalled the man asking to use the telephone. They quoted him as saying he wanted to call a cab.

All gave a similar description of the man—five feet, six inches tall, weighing 150 pounds, light hair, and wearing a leather jacket. The oil company employe described him as "droopy-eyed."

Relatives said the Mossers left their farm home at Atwood, 600 miles from Tulsa last Friday afternoon.

Mosser's sister, Mrs. Clarence Day of Bement, Ill., said she received a postcard mailed from Tulsa, December 30, postmarked at midnight. It was the last heard from the family.

Body of Doctor Found in River

FREDERICKTOWN, Mo., Jan. 4—(AP)—The body of Dr. W. Harry Barron, 75, was found at 10 a.m. today in nearby Castor river, about a mile and a half downstream from a low-water bridge on which he attempted to cross in his car while making a call yesterday.

The country physician, named Missouri's outstanding medical practitioner in 1949, apparently got out of the vehicle after it was swept off the bridge, and tried to reach safety.

His body was found at the flooding river's edge by a group of searchers which included highway patrolmen, city police and residents of this southeast Missouri community.

They launched the search shortly after 11 a.m. yesterday when Dr. Barron's car was found by a farmer.

The physician, born and reared here, broke a hip in a fall about a year ago and only recently resumed his practice. He was very frail.

Survivors include a widow; a daughter, Mrs. Linda Gale, and a granddaughter, Mrs. Betty Pieper, both of Cedar Rapids, Ia.

Rent Control Is Off at Columbia

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—(AP)—Federal rent controls today were removed from 10 communities, including Columia, Mo., by Housing Expediter Tighe Woods upon certification by local governing bodies that there was no longer a shortage of rental housing.

Woods said that the decontrol of Columbia included remaining controlled portions of Boone County.

Fewer Marriage Licenses In Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 4—(AP)—There were 518 fewer marriage licenses issued in Kansas City last year than in 1949, the total in 1950 was 5,639.

"There was an increasing number of remarriages," said Mrs. Mabelle K. Kennedy, a deputy clerk. 'One couple which applied for a license just before Christmas had been divorced 18 years ago."

Divorces declined slightly—from 2,748 in 1949 to 2,716 last year.

Kiwanis Talk by Gordon Capes

An informative talk about the University of Missouri was given by Gordon Capes of Sedalia, a university student, before the Sedalia Kiwanis club meeting in Bothwell hotel Thursday noon. He spoke under sponsorship of the Student Alumni Council and was introduced by the Rev. Roy L. Bowers.

Capes reviewed the growth of the university from the time of its establishment in 1841 as the oldest land grant college, until the present day when it is ranked 17th in size and offers expanded facilities for education of young men and women.

During his talk Capes urged improved counseling in the high schools of students preparing for college entrance. Much of this work has to be done now by a university counseling bureau providing guidance for adjustment after the student has entered college, whereas this could be more effectively done in high school.

On behalf of Kiwanis International President T. H. Yount presented past president Herbert Schrankler with a certificate of leadership in recognition of his services to the club.

George Dugan was appointed chairman of a committee to organize a Kiwanis bowling club.

Elements of another unit suffered heavy casualties before they could withdraw. Diebold said the Allied troops had been trapped by Chinese. He said there were smoking remains of eight or 10 tanks and two Bren carriers and many bodies at the scene.

Wounded were evacuated by ambulance and helicopter.

We flew very low over the frozen Han river. U. N. troops lay prone on the north bank of the river with their rifles. When they crawled up on the bank, they could look northward over Seoul. They would be the last to leave.

In about 30 minutes they were gone. And in another few minutes the last pontoon bridge was exploded.

Two railroad bridges and another pontoon bridge already lay broken in the frozen river.

Open Talks as To Aggression

LONDON, Jan. 4—(AP)—Prime Minister Attlee and leaders of seven other British commonwealth nations opened vital talks here today on ways to stop Communist aggression in Europe, the Middle East and Asia.

Six commonwealth prime ministers and South Africa's Interior Minister T. E. Donges, representing ailing Prime Minister Daniel Malan, went into session with Attlee this morning at No. 10 Downing street. Their meetings were expected to continue ten days.

In top place at the talks was the defense policy of the commonwealth, which includes more than 300,000,000 people on five continents.

Attlee was expected to urge joint and positive action to unite this family of nations more closely against the dangers of a new world war.

Soldier From Eldon Killed in Collision

BOLBROOK, Ariz., Jan. 4—(AP)—Pfc. Charles W. Wood, 24, of Eldon, Mo., was killed yesterday in a headon collision of a pickup truck in which he was riding and a car on a curve east of here.

Two persons in the car, both from California, also were killed.

Wood was riding with an ex-marine, Henry Maynard, of New York, in a truck driven by Emmett Wilhits of Pocatello, Idaho. Maynard and Wilhite were injured.

Deputies Are Approved

The Pettis County court, today approved deputies for three of the county offices which had been submitted to it. The court also approved the issuing of three 3.2 beer licenses and one license to sell liquor by the drink.

Miss Grace Farley and Lee Brandt, deputy clerks to James H. Green, county clerk, were approved by the court. Both Miss Farley and Mr. Brandt were reappointed. They have served under Mr. Green since his first election in 1944.

Miss Alma Borchers, was approved as secretary to Prosecuting Attorney Michael Bogutski. Miss Borcher was formerly deputy county recorder under John C. Ryan.

Licenses to sell 3.2 beer were issued to: Raymond Hood, for the Rockhill Service Station, route 4, license to expire on June 10, 1951; Earl Paul for Paul's Drive Inn, Sixteenth street and Grand avenue, license to expire April 1, 1951; Russell L. Ray, for the Fairfield Inn, route 3, license to expire on May 20, 1951.

License to sell liquor by the drink to Cassing and Son, 212 South Ohio avenue. License expires on June 30, 1951.

The court made an order directing all county officials and employees not to have equipment in their offices serviced or repaired, or make any repairs to the building without first obtaining a court approval.

Lives Saved by Skillful Landing

CHICAGO, Jan. 4—(AP)—Skillful handling of a C-46 airliner in making a forced landing minutes after the takeoff was credited early today with saving the lives of 45 passengers and the crew of three.

All 48 walked to safety seconds before the big ship burst into flames, a 10-month old baby, the 49th person in the plane, was carried out by a pasesnger. Three persons suffered minor injuries.

Though adept handling by Pilot Marvin Staddon, the plane was landed in an open field after it failed to gain altitude after taking off from Midway airport. The plane, one passenger reported, bounced along the open field, skilled into a haystack and remained upright.

The fire broke out after all had left the ship. It still was burning in the field a few blocks from the airport several hours later.

The plane, owned by the Monarch Air Service, Inc., had left the airport at 2:27 a. m. (CST) on a chartered flight to Newark, N. J.

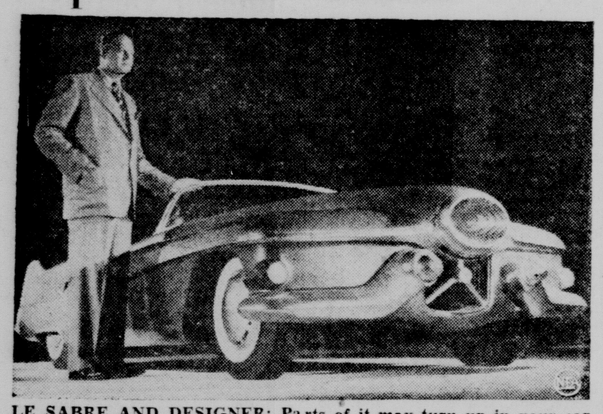
Car Stylists' Dreams Are Built Into Le Sabre, GM's Experimental Vehicle



LE SABRE AND DESIGNER: Parts of it may turn up in your car.

By NEA Service

DETROIT, Mich. —(NEA)— If you want a hint about what your car will be like five or ten years from now, cast a longing look at Le Sabre.

The designers of the experimental car caution that it isn't "the car of the future," however. It merely is a model that includes a lot of gadgets and improvements that are being tested. If they work on the road, they may go into the standard models in years to come.

Le Sabre is the work of the styling section of General Motors. Back in 1938, they built an experimental model which included a lot of styling and mechanical innovations that are now built into all new cars.

That '38 job was the first American styled car with electrically-controlled convertible top and door windows, curved glass door windows, push-button door latches inside and out, a low vertical front grille, fender extensions over the doors and tail lamps recessed in the rear fenders.

"We didn't know in 1938," says Harley J. Earl, GM's vice-president in charge of styling, "what features of our first experimental car would be used—or abandoned—as we developed our styling since that time. By the same token, it is impossible to say now what innovations we are testing in Le Sabre may be used stylewise or mechanically in future production models."

But there are enough radical ideas built into the flashy low convertible to give engineers plenty to draw on in years to come.

Here are some things Le Sabre has that are brand new:

1. It is made partly from lightweight magnesium and aluminum alloys. Le Sabre's total weight is expected to be about 3000 pounds.

2. It has a dual fuel system, using both current premium fuels and methyl alcohol (Methanol) which is injected into the combustion chambers through the carburetor at a certain level of the speed range for extra power boost.

3. A special Dynaflow torque converter is housed near the rear of the stationary driveshaft, just ahead of the differential.

4. The rear brakes are located on either side of the differential, rather than on the wheels.

5. The top section of the front grille is part of the lighting system. When the front parking lights, at the outer edges of the fenders, are turned on, the grille revolves and a pair of close-set headlights swings into place.

6. Two sets of three tail lamps are mounted on the trailing edge of the rear fins. These operate as tail lamps and directional signals. At the base of the fins are the back-up lights. The jet-type tail comes to a point in a combination stop-light and rear bumper.

7. The tail fins are useful, as well as ornamental. They are like airplane wing tanks, and one carries gasoline while the other carries methyl alcohol.

8. The two instrument panels—one on the steering post and the other in the center of the dash beneath the crash roll—flash red warning signals when the fuel level, for example, needs watching. There are all the usual instruments, plus such new ones as a compass, altimeter, gauges registering engine oil temperature and pressure and the torque converter fluid level and temperature. All gauges are lighted, some by fluorescent tubes.

9. Hydraulic jacks on each wheel are operated from the instrument panel. If a tire blows out, the car can be jacked up from inside.

10. There are thermostatically-controlled electric seat warmers.

11. If the car is parked with the top down, rain falling on a sensitized spot between the seats automatically starts the mechanism that raises the top.

And there many other changes in styling, and innovations in mechanical operation in Le Sabre. As yet, only a full-size plaster model has been built, but GM expects to complete the custom-built car within two months.

Don't place your orders yet—it's just for the sake of experimenting.

Aid To Yugoslavia Gets Publicity

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia—(AP)—American food relief shipments to hungry Yugoslavia are receiving full publicity in the Communist government's controlled press. In this winter of hardship following the country's worst drought in many years, the man-in-the-street knows from where his help comes.

The first food ship to arrive from the U. S. was greeted at the port of Rijeka (Fiume) by Luba Babic, deputy chairman of the Yugoslavic economic council, and U. S. Ambassador George Allen. Speeches of both remarking on America's prompt response to Yugoslavia's pleas for aid were front-paged in the Belgrade.

Try the amazing new MYNEX Plan. It's simple to use and makes reducing easier than you dreamed possible. You eat three meals a day and never suffer a too hungry moment. Fat goes from chin, neck, bust, stomach, arms, thighs, legs, ankles, etc.—yes, fat goes fast—as much as a pound a day. So don't be fat when it's fun to reduce the Canadian way with MYNEX Plan.

EAT MYNEX CONCENTRATED VITAMIN MINERAL TABLETS

Canadian overeaters who found usual reducing methods too hard, too tiring and too nerve-wracking, by the thousands acclaimed new MYNEX as the greatest reducing plan they have had in 25 years! MYNEX tablets are tiny, completely safe, containing identical vitamins and minerals doctors often recommend to fight off tired, weak, rundown feeling due to vitamin and mineral deficiencies when fat comes off too fast.

"Jane sure has let herself go since I've been away. I remember when she used to look so nice in that dress . . . before it got so tight!" . . . "I wonder if John has noticed the extra pounds I've put on. I certainly wish I had lost them before he came home . . . will it make a difference?"

DON'T BE FAT

Your doctor's recommendation and approval of the NEW MYNEX PLAN is invited. If you are in good health and want to stop getting fat and take off 3 to 5 pounds the first few days, or if you want to lose up to 35 lbs. or even more. Get your MYNEX Tablets today. Doubleheader For Memorial

First Game Starts At 2 p. m. at the Sacred Heart Gym

Arrangements for the Bob Tipton Memorial Fund games to be played this Sunday afternoon, January 7, at Sacred Heart gym have been completed.

The first game will get under way at 2:00 p. m. and will be between the Mo. Pacific Dynamos and Green Ridge. In the second game the Moose club will meet the Central Business college basketeers.

The squads of all four teams feature outstanding players, who have made a name in basketball and other sports. Among them are Anderson, Brown and Wadleigh from the Green Ridge quintet; McQuire, Zink, Norman and Livengood from the Dynamos; Mais, Egbert, Mickens and Michaelis from the Moose club and Elwell, Willie, Thomas and Kemmeyer from the CBC squad.

The purpose of these games is to help establish a fund that will continue to grow each year and that will be made available to worthy students to help them through their schooling. Each year in Sedalia two of the basketball clubs are to play a benefit game the proceeds of which are to be put into the Memorial fund.

Officials for the first game between Green Ridge and Mo. Pacific Dynamos starting at 2 p. m. will be George Thompson and Rocky Carver. In the next game between CBC and the Moose club the officials will be Coach Ralph Dow and Morrow Mason of the Missouri State High School Athletic association.

Anyone wanting to see an afternoon of basketball excitement and help out a worthy cause should attend these two games the promoters declare.

Joe Louis KO's Beshore In 4th

DETROIT, Jan. 4—(AP)—Savage punching Joe Louis looked the Brown Bomber of old last night as he knocked out a dead game Freddie Beshore of Harrisburg, Pa., in the fourth round of a bloody battle.

The former heavyweight king thus continued his quest for a return bout with Ezzard Charles, current boss of the heavyweight division.

Officially the knockout was listed at 2:46 of the fourth round when referee John Webber stepped in to save the bloody and beaten Beshore from additional punishment.

Just Too Much Bounce For Him

Ron MacGilvray of St. John's is floored in two ways — a slip and not knowing just how that elusive ball is going to bounce. The bounding ball and wide-eyed MacGilvray hit the floor in Madison Square Garden, New York in the closing moments of the St. John's-City College basketball game. Notre Dame And Joe Louis Rate 1-2 In Flop Of 1951

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 — Notre Dame's football team was voted the "disappointment of the year" in an Associated Press poll today as the result of its four losses during the past season, an event as rare as a snowfall in July.

The Irish had been named the "team of the year" in 1949. They were picked as the probable 1950 champions in a pre-season poll and they had run up 39 games without defeat when disaster struck in the form of an inspired Purdue eleven on Oct. 7.

Purdue Started Irish Downfall

Purdue won, 28-14, and before the curtain fell, Indiana, Michigan State, and Southern California made up for years of frustration by whipping famed Notre Dame, a synonym for success in football.

A total of 133 sports writers and sportcasters, out of a panel of 212, voted the Fighting Irish as the "flop" of 1950. On a basis of three points for a No. 1 pick, two for second, and three for third, Notre Dame had 486 points for the dubious distinction.

The runnerup position went to Joe Louis, the former heavyweight champion, whose amazing string of triumphs and records fatten the record books. The old Brown Bomber's comeback was ruined by the flashing fists of Ezzard Charles in a 15-round bout in Yankee stadium.

Louis Big Disappointment

Sixteen voters tabbed the results of Louis' return to the ring as the disappointment of the year. Louis had 156 points.

Right behind the former heavyweight boss came the Boston Red Sox, a perennial contender in the "flop" league. Once again the Red Sox were picked as the team to succeed in the American league and once again they didn't make it, finishing third.

The St. Louis Cardinals, finishing out of the first division for the first time since 1938, were fourth, followed by the Brooklyn Dodgers, the pre-season choice to win the National League pennant.

The Red Sox had 15 first placers and 123 points; St. Louis nine and 76; and Brooklyn eight and 73.

Davis Cup Team Drop Trophy

Then came four more teams, Southern Methodist, Minnesota, and the Philadelphia Eagles in football, and the U. S. Davis Cup tennis team which lost the silver trophy to Australia.

Tenth place went to the New York Yankees' erratic relief hurler, Joe Page. Page has been very, very good in the odd numbered years and very, very bad in the even years.

There were several old standbys in the disappointment division.

Shirley Mae France was nominated again for failing to swim the English channel, Frank Stranahan was selected for not coming through in the U. S amateur golf championship, and Dick Wakefield for failing to regain the big leagues in baseball.

Boxer in Fatal Bout in Benefit

By Arthur L. Edson

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—(AP)—Percy Bassett, who fought Sonny Boy West the night he was fatally injured, returns to the ring tonight for the first time since that bout. Appropriately, it's a benefit for West's widow.

Bassett, a Philadelphia boy who is the fourth ranking lightweight in the nation by National Boxing Association standards, will meet Ted (Red Top) Davis of Hartford, Conn., in a ten-rounder.

On Dec. 20 Bassett fought West, a Washington youngster, in New York. He hit West with a clean blow. West went down and his head banged into the canvas. He died the next day without regaining consciousness.

Some of boxing's biggest names will be on hand tonight.

Joe Louis, former heavyweight champion, who last night defeated Freddie Beshore and welterweight king Ray (Sugar) Robinson, will help out as referees. Lee Savold, one of the better heavyweights, will box in an exhibition. Willie Pep, former featherweight champion, will be in Davis' corner as a second.

Those who attend the bout will see all boxers wearing headgear.

The district boxing commission ordered the protectors after the death of West. Its contention: West might not have received the fatal injury had his head been properly protected.

Those who have advocated the headgear (it's used now in college boxing) claim it won't slow up the action. They also say that it will prevent unsatisfactory endings caused by cut eyes.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis was founded in 1938 by Franklin D. Roosevelt.

New York State was named by Charles the Second of England, for his brother, the Duke of York, in 1664.

Missouri's Heineman Proves Skill Counter-Balances Size

S-C Faculty And Five Stars Vie January 10

The Five Stars of Smith-Cotton high school have organized a basketball squad again this season and will play against small high school and amateur teams in Central Missouri for worthy benefits. Their first scheduled game will be held next Wednesday night against the Smith-Cotton faculty on the S-C court. Proceeds of this game will be turned over to the student council.

Members of the Five Stars are: Bill Arnold, Kenneth Hill, Bob Rosenquist, Don Decker, Gene Williams, Art Conley, Warren Keens, Don Pummill, Dave Johnson, Bill Wheeler and John Cochran. These boys are not out for the Smith-Cotton varsity but many of them participate in other sports, so, in order for them to maintain their athletic eligibility they must play against amateurs only.

On January 13, the Stars will journey to Smithton to meet the Tigers of that town. The proceeds from this game will go to a fund to buy the Smithton cagers new sweat suits.

Last season the Five Stars played nine games, winning five of those starts. The faculty handed them one of their four setbacks by trouncing them 49-41.

Tickets for the Faculty-Five Star game are on sale and can be purchased from any member of the student council, members of the Five Stars or many Smith-Cotton students.

Any team wanting a contest with the Stars are asked o write to the Five Stars, in care of, Smith-Cotton Student Council, Smith-Cotton high school, Sedalia, Missouri.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Jan. 4 — As long as "good little men" like Versailles' Buddy Heineman keep strutting their stuff on a basketball court, the well-publicized "big boys" won't ever monopolize the sport.

Little Bud, the 5-ft. 10-inch left-hander, stepped right off the 1946-47 Versailles state championship cage team—and into the hearts of Missouri cage fans. A regular starter for three seasons, the scrappy southpaw has been one of the more popular and talented basketeers in Coach Sparky Stalcup's post-war regime as head man of Tiger basketball.

Bud Heineman
University of Missouri

And no wonder. The little sparkplug does everything well. He's a gifted jump-shooter with a soft, feathery touch. Stalcup calls him "the greatest natural shooter. I've ever coached." Clever on defense, too, Heineman is an eternal ball-hawk, who comes up often with the loose ball. Of especial delight to Tiger fans is the way the little guy out-snatches taller foes on rebounds—or gets the tip on them in jump-ball situations.

Through Missouri's first five games this year, Bud appeared en route to his best campaign. He had 56 points to his credit, averaging better than 11 points per outing. Back East in Madison Square Garden, he showed 'em that "size ain't everything" by arching 19 points through the hoop as Mizzou upset C.C.N.Y., 54-37.

Coach Stalcup was shopping primarily for "size" when he first saw Heineman in the state tournament at Springfield—and Bud's five-by-ten dimensions didn't impress him too much. But once the Versailles ace began pumping in his pet shots (he bagged 96 points in four games for a tournament record that still stands), Stalcup got interested fast.

Heineman scored only 94 points in his sophomore year at Missouri, but led his teammates in the point derby last season with 230. Even then, he played only part-time in five games because of an ankle injury—yet averaged almost ten points in each game.

This year Heineman's shooting and Bill Stuffer's rebound work have been major factors in the Tigers' early success. They won four of their first five starts prior to the Big Seven tournament at Kansas City.

A top-flight student, Heineman hopes to enter dental school after graduation this June.

Wilt Receives A Trophy In Athletics

Was One of the World's Greatest In Distance Running

NEW YORK, Jan. 4—(AP)—Fred Wilt, the FBI man who came out of retirement to run in th 1948 Olympic games, will receive the coveted 1950 James E. Sullivan Memorial Trophy for amateur athletes.

The 29-year old graduate of Indiana now running for the New York Athletic club is national outdoor 5,000-meter champion and in inter-national respected competitor at routes from a mile to 10,000 meters.

Wilt, who will receive the Amateur Athletic Union trophy at a luncheon here February 18, was the first choice on 166 of 479 ballots cast in a nationwide poll of sports experts. In 1946 Wilt retired and bought a life membership in the AAU, but he came back for the 1948 London games.

On the basis of 5-3-1 for first, second and third place,, Wilt scored 1,197 points to beat out Joe Verdeur of Philadelphia, 1948 Olympic breast stroke champion and one of the world's outstanding swimmers.

Verdeur, who was runnerup for the second year in a row, received 114 first place votes and 1,013 points. Third went to Dick Attlesey, world record breaking high hurdler from Southern California and the Los Angeles A. C., with 104 first place ballots and 838 points. The Sullivan Memorial committee selected seven athletes it deemed most worthy to be considered in final voting.

Wilt, who was fourth in the voting last year to figure skater Dick Button, is obliged to train early in the morning or late in the evening because of his FBI work.

He is consistent at 4:12 or better for the mile and nine minutes or better for two miles.

Fourth place in the Sullivan voting went to Doris Hart, Miami tennis star, with 37 firsts and 508 poins; fifth to Charles Peters, Indiana sprinter, 30 and 337; sixth, Adolph Weinacker, national long distance walking champion from Michigan State college, 16 and 178; and seventh, William Dudley, New Orleans A. C. freestyle swimmer, 12 and 156.

Stan Musial Will Talk on Contract

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 4—(AP)—Stan Musial, National League batting champion, and his boss, owner Fred Saigh of the St. Louis Cardinals, were scheduled to start a lively conversation today or possibly tomorrow.

They're going to begin negotiations on Musial's 1951 contract, Saigh disclosed. Musial has let it be known he expects a substantial raise but isn't saying what he will ask. Saigh is silent on what he will offer.

A two-year contract under which the Cardinal star received a reported $50,000 annually expired last year.

On the subject of contracts, Saigh said his players were the highest paid in the league last year, averaging $2,000 a player above any other National League team.

The club owner says, too, the Cardinals had more players receiving $20,000 or more last year than any team in the majors but that some of these are due for pay cuts this year.

None of the Cardinals is under contract yet except for manager Marty Marion and his three coaches. At this time a year ago, all of the players had been signed with the exception of Howard Pollet and catcher Del Rice.

Fate of Rose Bowl in Period Of Suspense

Decision Awaits On Future of the Great Grid Classic

By Bob Myers

RIVERSIDE, Calif., Jan. 4—(AP)—The fate of the historic Rose Bowl football game hangs in suspense today — and it will continue to hang that way for another two weeks.

Officials of the Pacific Coast conference electrified the world of college football by disclosing that it is seriously considering discontinuing, or modifying its annual participation in the oldest and richest post season game of them all.

The conference will hold a special, unprecedented meeting "shortly after" the NCAA convention in Dallas next week to decide whether it will continue to participate in the New Year's day grid classic next year and in the years to come.

The startling decision, revolutionary in modern football history, was made for one simple reason.

College football, said President H. P. Everest of the Pacific Coast conference, is getting too big for its trousers.

"We must take steps to relieve the tensions and this is the first step," were the words of the University of Washington professor.

The pressure to win football games, as crystalized in any post season bowl game — Rose, Sugar or Squash bowl — is too much, said the learned Prof. Everest, in effect, as he issued a formal statement adopted by the coast conference.

He made it clear that yesterday's announcement was not final—the PCC may continue, modify or discontinue its present participation in the oig game, but nothing will be decided until the special session at a site and date to be announced later following the NCAA meeting.

Prof. Hugh C. Willett, president of the NCAA and faculty representative of the University of Southern California at the PCC winter meeting here, said the policy adopted here has no bearing on the NCAA convention as it now shapes up.

Might Regulate Returns

There is no legislative way that the NCAA can, for instance, ban its members from playing in bowl games in 1952. There is legislation afoot for member NCAA schools to regulate financial returns from bowl games and there is the possibility of "corridor talk" which may shape up future NCAA policies regarding bowl games, Willett admitted.

J. C. Thompson, Jr., president of the Cotton bowl, disagreed with Everest. He said creation of the Dallas game caused less pressure for winning Southwest conference teams than before it was started.

Pressure was relieved, Thompson said, because the conference schools knew where the champion was going.

"There was no such thing as trying to win in order to get into the Rose bowl or the Sugar bowl or the Orange bowl," he said.

Sugar bowl officials at New Orleans refused comment.

"The Orange bowl is more than just a football game," said S. Grover Morrow, president of the Orange bowl committee at Miami. "We believe time will come when the football game will be no greater attraction than any other part, including our parade, regatta and other activities."

The coast attitude was completely independent of national policies. It caught its own official family by surprise, as well as the Pasadena Tournament of Roses football committee.

Just 24 hours previously, the commissioners of the Big Ten and PCC, Kenneth L. Tug) Wilson and Victor O. Schmidt, spoke hopefully of a renewal of the expired five-year Rose bowl pact between the two loops. Schmidt said he was not aware of the events coming up.

S-C Tigers Bump College Hi 53-41 To Win Home Opener

The Smith-Cotton Tigers opened their home cage season with a rousing 53-41 win over a tall College High school Colt team of Warrensburg Wednesday night. The win for the Bengals was number eight.

College Hi and the locals battled neck-and-neck the first three periods with neither team holding over a five point lead at any time. In the fourth quarter the Bengals pulled away as little Claude Murphy hit the nets for eight points and Morgan hit the bucket for four, while big Bob Shawver gained the majority of the rebounds from his taller opponents.

The Warrensburg crew led 12 to 11 at the end of the first quarter but the Bengals led the major portion of the playing time. The lead changed hands seven times in the first half and as the buzzer sounded the Colts had increased their lead to two points by 25-23.

The Bengals took command in the third frame as Murphy and Shawver each shoved in four points. In the final quarter Yancy hit a long jump shot to give College Hi their last lead by 34-33. Shawver started the ball rolling for the Bengals by connecting with a hook. Murphy and Morgan hit jump shots and big Billy Cooper added a charity toss to give the Tigers a comfortable 40-34 lead. From then on it was easy pickings for Coach Jim Balls crew as the Colts seemed to fall apart.

Bill Morgan, the Bengals leading scorer, led the Smith-Cotton crew again as he tallied 17 points. This runs his seasons total to 124 or an average of 11.3 per game. Murphy took the runner-up position with 14 and Shawver tallied 12 to take third spot.

Yancy with 12 and Irle tossing in 10 counters led the Colts.

Eddie Johnson continued his consistent fouling for the Tigers as he fouled out to ran his total to 37 for the current season.

Hubbard Deals With Lincoln Here Tonight

The Hubbard high school Tigers will play their first game in the new year tonight against Lincoln University high school of Jefferson City, Missouri, at 8 p. m. in the Hubabrd high school gym.

The Tigers look much improved and will be out to return the defeat handed them by Lincoln in the early part of the season. In Black, the visiting team has one of the best centers in the state and big Carl Whitney will have his hands full trying to stop him.

Alvin Jones Jr., freshman, forward for the Tigers, has proved to be the best freshman prospect of this season and is expected to give the visiting team trouble.

Charge Mort Cooper With Abandonment

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 4—(AP)—Morton Cooper, former major league pitcher now operating a night club at Hannibal, Mo., was charged with abandoning his son on the complaint of his former wife, Mrs. Bernadine Cooper.

The couple was divorced in 1946 and Cooper was directed to pay $200 a month support for his son, Lonnie Morton Cooper, 13.

The former Mrs. Cooper told the prosecutor that Morton stopped paying the money a few months after the decree was issued.

Green Ridge

Mrs. Verna Palmer

Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Rayburn of Green Ridge, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Marilyn Rayburn, of Beaver, Okla., to Mr. Dale Anderson of Boise City, Okla., the son of Mrs. Beulah Anderson, of Green Ridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Selsus Iman and children, Joan and Kim, were among the guests at a Christmas dinner at the home of Mrs. Iman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Skinner in Slater, Mo.

A turkey dinner was held at the home of Mrs. Mattie Clevenger on Christmas day in Green Ridge. Guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Earl Clevenger and daughters, of Sedalia, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Clevenger and children of Green Ridge, Mr. and Mrs. John Thacker and daughters of Higginsville, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Vannoy and children, and Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Clevenger of Green Ridge.

Sgt. Vernon E. Palmer who has been serving for the past thirty-two months in the Far East air force of the United States in Tokyo, Japan, was promoted to staff sergeant the 17th of December, 1950. Sergeant Palmer is with the headquarters squadron of the statistical control department and he is over the tabulating machine operators. On December 10, 1950, Staff Sergeant Palmer re-enlisted for a period of six years.

In 1948 and 1949 the basketball team of which Sgt. Palmer is captain, won the trophy of the Far East Air Force Basketball league without losing a game of basketball. So far this year they have lost one game.

S/Sgt. Palmer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Palmer of Green Ridge.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Haynes entertained guests at Christmas dinner on Sunday, December 24, at their home in Green Ridge. Guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Davis of Salina, Kas., Misses Rose and Alma Borchers of Sedalia, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Borchers and son, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Williams, all of Lincoln.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Acker entertained at dinner on Christmas day, at their home, the following relatives: Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Anderson of Green Ridge, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Adams and daughter, Mona, of Calhoun, Mr. and Mrs. Pirtle Lowry of Hermitage, Mo., and Mrs. Curtis Lowry of Sedalia, Mr. and Mrs. Gail Long of Kansas City, Mr. and Mrs. John Lowry of Windsor were afternoon callers.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Pottorff were hosts at a family dinner on Christmas day at their home near Hickory Point. The following children and their families were present: Mr. and Mrs. Dean Stratton and son, Dale, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pottorff and family, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Pottorff and family, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pottorff and family, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Pottorff and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Chapman and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Weatherby and family, Leroy Pottorff and Clifford, Patricia, Betty Jo and Kay Carlson of Green Ridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Acker left Green Ridge on Friday morning for Eau Gallie, Fla., where they plan to spend the next three months vacationing and fishing in the southern part of Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Eckle are the parents of a daughter born at the Bothwell hospital in Sedalia, on Thursday, December 21. Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Sims of Green Ridge are the maternal grandparents of the baby.

Roy Scotten, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Scotten, who reside north of Green Ridge, left Thursday, December 28, for St. Louis, where he will take entrance examinations for service in the navy for a period of four years.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Carter entertained with a turkey dinner on Sunday, December 24, at their home on highway 127, north of Green Ridge. Guests were their children and their families. It was a very happy occasion for the family, as it was the first time the whole family had been together since 1936.

Those present were: Rev. and Mrs. C. D. O'Neill and daughters, Peggy and Dawn, of Elsberry, Mo., Miss Lucille Carter of St. Louis, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Carter and children, Ronnie and Sandra Jean, of South Gate, Calif., Miss Fredonia Carter of Kansas City, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Carter, Jr., and sons, Terry and Jimmie, of Green Ridge, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Stacy and son, Bill, of Kansas City, and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Carter of Green Ridge

T/Sgt. Howard E. Warren, who is an instructor at the army air force school at Lowry Field, Denver, Colo., spent the Christmas holidays visiting his mother, Mrs. Olta Warren, at her home in Sedalia. On Thursday of last week Sgt. Warren was in Green Ridge visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Stoddard were hosts at a family dinner on Tuesday of last week at their home in Green Ridge. Seated with them were Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Ream and daughter, Joyce of Carroll, Iowa, Mr. and Mrs. Milfred Lewis and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Stoddard of this community.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dowdy attended a turkey dinner on Christmas day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Gann at Odessa, Mo. They were guests on Christmas night of Mrs. Dowdy's sister, Mrs. Paul Sullins and Mr. Sullins at Bates City, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. Orland Gilillan and daughters, Judy, Carol Sue and Mary Lou, of St. Louis, spent the Christmas holidays visiting in the home of Mrs. Gilillan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Ream in Green Ridge.

Mrs. Mae Iman, Mrs. Wilma Eckhoff and daughters, Drue and Linda and Alton Iman and daughters, Agnes of Green Ridge, and Mr. and Mrs. Rollie Egbert and son, Iman of St. Louis, spent Sunday and Monday of last week visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Iman and children, Elaine, and Johnnie at Keytesville, Mo.

Mrs. Myrtle Boltz who has been visiting her son, E. H. Boltz and Mrs. Boltz at their home near Ionia and her granddaugher, Mrs. D. D. Davis, Mr. Davis and children, at their home east of Green Ridge, during the holiday season has returned to the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. R. Wareham, and Mr. Wareham, at Texarkana, Tex.

Volunteers Jam Recruit Offices

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 4—(AP)—Induction machinery here is so overtaxed that nearby recruiting offices have been asked not to send any more Army or Air Force volunteers here for processing until further notice.

The St. Louis induction center serves eastern Missouri and southern Illinois.

The rush to enter the two services is termed the biggest since the start of World War II. Officers said the surge, which started the day after Christmas, has created a backlog of 400 men.

They are waiting here to take physical exams and have their records prepared. Until this group is processed and placed on trains for camp, no more volunteers can be accepted.

Officers emphasized, however, that the jam will not affect induction of draftees. And they urged that men continue to apply for enlistment at recruiting stations in their area, explaining that such men would have a wait of only a few days.

More than 800 applicants for the Army and Air Force jammed St. Louis recruiting offices Wednesday. At least 500 of these were from outlying sections of Missouri and Illinois.

The navy reported about 150 applications yesterday. Marine corps recruiting was running only slightly above normal.

India Models U. S. Agency

NEW DELHI, India—(AP)—The government plans to replace the present Tariff Board with a permanent statutory organization modelled after the United States Tariff commission, official sources here say.

Suez Canal Widened

SUEZ—(AP)—An auxiliary passage is being added to the Suez Canal, world's major ocean waterway, along seven of its 104 miles. The project was undertaken to speed a swelling, record tonnage of shipping through the canal.

The 81-year-old canal a pawn in international politics since the days of Disraeli, is now handling more than 1,000 ships per month. The largest percentage of the ships cary oil from the rich Persian Gulf fields. The new canal will permit two-way traffic and eliminate some of the waiting time at the entrance.

SINGLE-ENGINE TAKEOFF—Aided by the tremendous thrust of a JATO (jet assisted takeoff) unit, an Ethiopian Air Lines Convair takes to the air on a single engine in a demonstration flight at San Diego, Calif. The Ethiopian line is the first commercial airline to install the JATO device as a standard equipment. It is used as a safety precaution when operating from high-altitude airports, such as Addis Ababa's, which is 7700 feet above sea level.

Father Walsh Says:

It is Right That We Use the A-Bomb First

A Noted Religious and Diplomatic Authority Makes a Strong Case That We're Not Morally Bound to Wait for the Enemy to Attack Us

By Edmund A. Walsh, S. J.
Vice-President, Georgetown University
Regent, School of Foreign Service

(Distributed by NEA Service)

Editor's Note: Must America wait for the first devastating blow of an aggressor before retaliating with the atom bomb?

Until now most responsible comment has been that we must await the attack, pick ourselves up out of the ruins and go on from there.

Now a distinguished Jesuit authority on foreign relations comes forward with the challenging assertion that the United States should beat Russia to the punch—that it is morally, ethically, legally and militarily right that we do so.

The President's proclamation of December 16, declaring a state of national emergency, marked the end of what is probably the most amazing and confused chapter in the history of American foreign policy. The official description and recognition of the objectives of world communism by the Presidential decree put the issue, at long last, exactly where it belongs. The final confrontation has been reached between the two great centers of world power whose basic and irreconcilable character was frankly described by Soviet authorities many years ago. They never had a moment's doubt as to the inevitable clash that must ensue.

Lenin knew it and warned his followers:

"We live . . . not only in a state but a system of states, and the existence of the Soviet Republic side by side with the imperialist states (i.e., non-Communist states) for a long time is unthinkable. In the end either one or the other will conquer. And until that end comes, a series of the most terrible collisions between the Soviet Republic and the bourgeois states is inevitable."

After citing this fundamental Soviet doctrine, Stalin once added the laconic remark: "Clear, one would think."

In 1927 he likewise declared to a visiting delegation of American workers:

"Thus in the course of further development of international revolution, two centers will form on a world scale . . . The struggle of these two centers for the possession of the world economy will decide the fate of capitalism and communism in the whole world."

The hard core, the stronghold and arsenal of the non-Communist forces in this conflict with Soviet communism are the United States—a diagnosis which Stalin confirmed in his interview with former Gov. Stassen in 1947. Neither he nor any Leninist believes in the continued co-existence of these two opposing worlds of economic thought and moral ideals. The protestations of peaceful intent spoken by Vishinsky in the United Nations are only the actors' lines of a prepared script designed to distract the audience from an approaching Pearl Harbor.

It is for that inevitable, titanic Armageddon that Soviet rearmament has been in preparation since 1945. There is consequently a recognizable logicality in Soviet maneuvers, whether on the diplomatic front or in their territorial arrangements, which makes Soviet conduct coldly consistent and not an enigma, or a puzzle, as some unhistoric minds imagine. The Politburo has ordered many a zigzag, to be sure, but their overall strategy reveals the most coherent national policy and effective staff planning observable on the stage of international relations for the past 30 years. Look at a map of the world. Something like 800 million human beings are now directly or indirectly under the control of Moscow—which means approximately one-third of the human race.

The place of A-bombs and H-bombs in this complex clash of power between East and West is, like the ghost of Banquo, the uninvited guest at every international conference. Ready to scrap the advantage conferred by those ghastly weapons if all other nations would agree to effective controls, the government of the United States has been blocked by the constant veto of Soviet Russia. Thus she gains time while the sands run out—till she has a stockpile of atomic bombs. Hence, regretfully but categorically, President Truman announced on April 6, 1949, that he would authorize use of atomic bombs again, should the dreaded necessity arise and if the welfare of the United States and the democracies of the world are at stake, "I hope and pray," he added, "that will never be necessary."

The rightful effects of that dreadful weapon are known by personal observation to the present writer, as he spent some 10 days in the ruins of Hiroshima in 1947 and interviewed many of the victims who survived the tragedy. The ethical problem of employing such a lethal weapon which, by the very nature and intensity of the explosion will exterminate thousands upon thousands of civilians and innocent bystanders not directly employed in military activities, is not easy to resolve. Discussion of that moral aspect is made intricate and inconclusive, moreover, by the new and inescapable fact of total warfare.

The degeneration in international conduct since 1939 and the evil of total war have produced profound public consequences. There is no longer a battle front in the conventional sense; there is no longer a defined and limited zone of combat occupied by military forces, by men who are expected to run the risks of soldiers, leaving a rear territory inhabited by civilians not subject to the same hazards under the old concept of warfare.

Today the total population is involved; the needs of technological developments embrace so much organization for armament and for supply that the battle front has moved into every city, town and village. There is no rear; there is no escape; and there is no shield of legal status.

What is of immediate concern, then, is definition and clarification of the issue raised by President Truman's reference to necessity and the welfare of the United States, followed by his authorization to proceed with production of the hydrogen bomb.

Direct assault launched against us by an enemy who is known to have the atomic bomb—and no power would now attack the United States without it—raises one type of question not too difficult to answer. We should have no alternative but to retaliate in kind. A second question is more compelling and it is with this that we are here concerned: Would the United States be justified in launching an immediate atomic attack against an enemy power before it could use that devastating weapon against our cities?

Under any hypothesis, the answer is extremely difficult to formulate, both for ethical and historical reasons. Our ever tradition and instinct as a people, as well as conscience itself, recoils before such a dread alternative even in self-defense, although few moralists will insist that we must wait until the enemy delivers the first atomic blow.

Under the new conditions of the atomic age such an aggression might very well be fatal, not only to a vast number of individuals, as is obvious, but to our entire system of national defense and to our existence as a nation.

Clearly, atomic bombs would be used under title of defense only, a claim that would be set up by every nation. Hence, the concept and term "defense" must be clarified, both by definition and through application to concrete circumstances.

The use of force for legitimate self-defense is conferred by the natural law. This moral justification to repel an unjust aggressor by means reasonably adapted and proportionate to the nature of the attack, is the right not only of individuals but of the state as well. In the case of the state, it goes further still; it becomes an obligation, in view of the duty incumbent on government to safeguard the lives, the liberty and the temporal welfare of citizens viewed individually and collectively. In total war the attack is no longer limited to acknowledged military targets; it is leveled against whole peoples as peoples.

The problem, then, involves questions relating to the certainty and immediacy of an attack under given circumstances as well as to the special nature of some new defensive weapon. In the evolution of human relationships from primitive to modern and complex, the elements of certainty and immediacy have varied in step with the development of weapons of attack.

Primitive man was justified in exercising his right to strike a preventive blow when he saw a bare fist descending on him at arm's length, or a stone lifted against him. In the course of time he saw an ax uplifted, a dagger drawn, then a sword thrust at him, then a spear leveled, then an arrow fitted to a bowstring. The danger, though moving back in space, was still immediate and certain in time. With the invention of gunpowder, the assailant moved farther and farther away, but no basic change was introduced in the elements of certainty and immediacy of attack. Then, long-range artillery, thought discharging explosives from emplacements even out of sight and miles away, could menace life and limb with equal certainty and immediacy.

Now comes the age of air power, with military aviation carrying flaming death from bases located 3000, 5000 miles away. Aircraft carriers far out at sea, flying bombs, guided missiles, jet bombs and atomic explosives can now be a certain and immediate menace from ever-growing distances in this era of global-minded-warfare.

Who shall maintain that the substantive and inherent right of self-defense is canceled out by an accidental circumstance or by the ingenuity of an aggressor in a chemical laboratory?

The Japanese air force which bombed Pearl Harbor was carried to a point designated for the take-off by a fleet of war vessels, including carriers, which, we now know, left the northern Japanese port of Tankan Wan on November 26, 1941, for the attack delivered on December 7. The attacking planes took off from the decks of their carriers at a point approximately 230 miles north of Pearl Harbor. It would be a tortured interpretation of the right of self-defense to deny the corresponding right to have intercepted and destroyed that advancing menace at any point, near or far.

Should history repeat itself and produce a Soviet feint in some remote area of Asia or the Middle East, it will be the signal for those burnt once in the fire of such deceit to keep their eyes fixed on the Northwest and Arctic sector of our American defense system.

If the government of the United States has sound reason to believe (that is, has moral certitude, that a similar attack is being mounted and ready to be launched against this country from any source, then it would appear that President Truman would be morally justified to take defensive measure proportionate to the danger.

That would mean use of the atomic bomb, as no power would launch a surprise attack on the United States without an adequate supply of atomic bombs. Should large numbers of civilians be harmed by American necessity to use the bomb in self-defense, that regrettable effect, not intended as such, would be attributable to what moralists describe as the indirect voluntary.

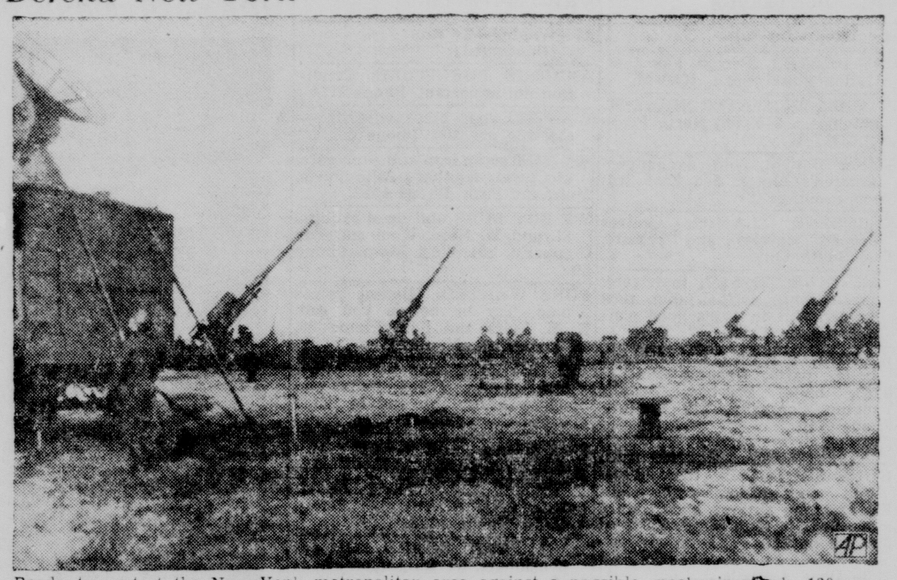
An attack against us would have to be sudden, unannounced, sufficiently devastating and so widespread in coverage as to cripple our powers of reprisal; the reply to any partial crippling would be so overwhelmingly atomic that no aggressive government could risk the gamble without certainty of success. Losing the gamble under present conditions of warfare would mean practical annihilation.

This argument presupposes, as its crucial premise, accuracy of information, honest information, competent information, and an alert intelligence service. If time permitted, a warning or an ultimatum to an enemy found to be preparing such an attack should be given. But, with or without ultimatum, I personally see no immorality, though much tragedy and horror of consequences, in the government of the United States choosing the lesser of two evils.

Neither reason nor theology, nor morals require men or nations to commit suicide by requiring that we must await the first blow from a power with no moral inhibitions and when, as in the case now under consideration, the attack would surely include bombardment by atomic missiles.

Even Christ himself did not disdain to seize a lash and drive the hypocrites out of the temple. But what an appalling responsibility is now laid on military intelligence, on diplomatic vigilance and on all related security agencies which gather and analyze information in this atomic age.

Defend New York



Ready to protect the New York metropolitan area against a possible sneak air attack, 120mm. anti-aircraft guns and a radar unit (left) are set up at Fort Totten, in Queens. These guns and some 90mm. ones were readied at Fort Totten and Fort Tilden, also in Queens. The 12mm. guns can fire a 30-pound projectile up to a distance of 20 miles and an altitude of more than 40,000 feet. Radar and an "electric brain" operate the guns, the crews "just pass the ammunition." (AP Wirephoto)

Store Stirs Dispute

MILAN—(AP)—The construction of Europe's "most modern department store building" alongside Milan's famous cathedral del Duomo momentarily scandalized this land of architectural treasures. The controvery, raging from Milan street corners to the Italian Cabinet, is yet to be settled and may eventually reach the courts.

All the fuss was caused by the clean lines of the leftwing of the new building only a few yards from the Gothic beauty of the cathedral on Milan's Piazza del Duomo.

The Smithsonian Institution in Washington was established under the terms of the will of an Englishman, James Smithsonian.

Super Carrier Again Issue In Congress

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—(AP)—Legislation for a 60,000-ton super aircraft carrier which presumably could put the Navy in the atom bomb business was introduced Wednesday as one of the first bills of the new congress. Hearings start January 9.

In the background as Chairman Vinso (D-Ga) of the House Armed Services committee offered the measure were the same explosive issues which brought about the "admirals' revolt" and a sensational Congressional investigation in 1949.

The basic disputes then were over the roles to be assigned to the Navy and the Air Force in carrying long-range war to an enemy, and the division of funds to prepare for those roles.

Air Force Opposed

The Air Force, which has primary responsibility for strategic bombing under the service unification program, never liked Navy plans for a 65,000-ton atom bomb carrier. Air enthusiasts argued it would be a vulnerable target, not specially valuable for Navy operations on a close to the sea and inefficient as compared with big land-based bombers for long strikes.

Louis Johnson, then Secretary of Defense, cancelled construction of the proposed U. S. S. United States in April, 1949, after the keel for the huge ship had been laid at Newport News. He said he did so after receiving the views of the joint chiefs of staff and conferring with President Truman.

Navy Reaction Bitter

High Naval officers reacted with indignation which broke into the open a few months later. There were open accusations of fraud in the selection of the B-36 bomber as the Air Force's main strategic reliance, and criticism of the effectiveness of the plane itself. Naval officers claimed they had fighters that could knock the air giants out of the sky day or night at any altitude. They derided the idea that an enemy couldn't do that too.

A protracted Congressional investigation resulted in exoneration of all officials accused of political favoritism and other misdeeds in connection with the B-36 program, and committee acceptance of the view that the B-36 was the best plane in sight for its worldwide job.

Beef, Pork And Coffee in Advance

By The Associated Press

Retail prices of many beef and pork items and most chain store bag-packed coffees climbed a little higher in this first week of the new year. Eggs and several fresh vegetables were lower.

Advances in beef cuts ranged from one to six cents a pound, while loin chops and other popular pork items were as much as 10 cents a pound higher in some places. The increases had been expected because of higher wholesale prices last week after storms reduced shipments to livestock markets. Veal and lamb held about unchanged at retail.

Major store chains hiked their bag-packed coffee brands two cents a pound, citing higher green coffee costs in the last few weeks. Large independent roasters of nationally-advertised canned coffees—marked up last month—made no new adjustments.

Retail grades of eggs declined two to four cents in most marketing centers. Poultry was about unchanged and butter edged a cent or two a pound higher in scattered sections.

Of the fresh vegetables, spinach was marked down the most as shipments from Texas improved. Also lower: beets, snap beans, cauliflower, pascal celery, escarole, big Boston lettuce, peas. Most oranges, pink grapefruit and pears also edged a little lower. Cabbage, golden heart celery, cranberries, cucumbers, grapes and best tangerines were slightly higher on many produce counters.

The Dun and Bradstreat wholesale food price index advanced to $6.93 this week from $6.90 last week, was nearly 21 per cent higher than a year ago and highest since mid-September of 1948. This index has not declined since last October 10, when it was 6.48. And this week's figure compares with $5.96 just before the Korean war began. The index represents the total wholesale cost of a pound each of 31 foods in general use.

NEW, MIRACLE ELECTRONIC EAR HIDES DEAFNESS

CHICAGO, (Special)—An amazing new electronic ear which hides deafness and transmits even whispers with startling clarity, has been revealed by a noted Chicago electronic scientist.

He disclosed that this miraculous new discovery has rendered old-style hearing aids obsolete almost overnight, and brings new hope to the 15 million persons in the United States who are hard of hearing.

He reported that this electronic ear enables the deaf to hear without any button showing in the ear and without dangling battery wires.

To acquaint the hard of hearing readers of this paper with this new miracle electronic ear which hides deafness, full details are described in a fascinating booklet, "New Discoveries to Help the Deaf Hear." It will be sent free in a plain wrapper to anyone who requests it. Address: Electronic Research Director, 1001-A Grand Ave Kansas City 6, Mo. A penny postcard will do.

Testimony at Odds

Dr. Howard A. Bridgman (right), assistant professor of economics at Tufts college, Medford, Mass., testified at the perjury trial of William W. Remington that he had been a Communist party member, starting in 1936, without ever having a card issued to him. His testimony was in direct contradiction to that of Kenneth E. McConnell (left) of Weaverville, N. C., who said under cross-examination that he did not know of any member who did not have a card at some time. Testimony was offered by the government in an attempt to prove that Remington, a former commerce department economist, could have been a member without a card. (AP Wirephoto)

To Direct Production

Maj. Gen. S. R. Brentnall, chief of research and development at Wright-Patterson Air Force base, Dayton, Ohio, has been named to direct the production of B-47 bombers at the Douglas Aircraft plant in Tulsa, Okla. Douglas will produce B-47 jet-powered bombers under a top priority at the Tulsa plant. (AP Wirephoto)

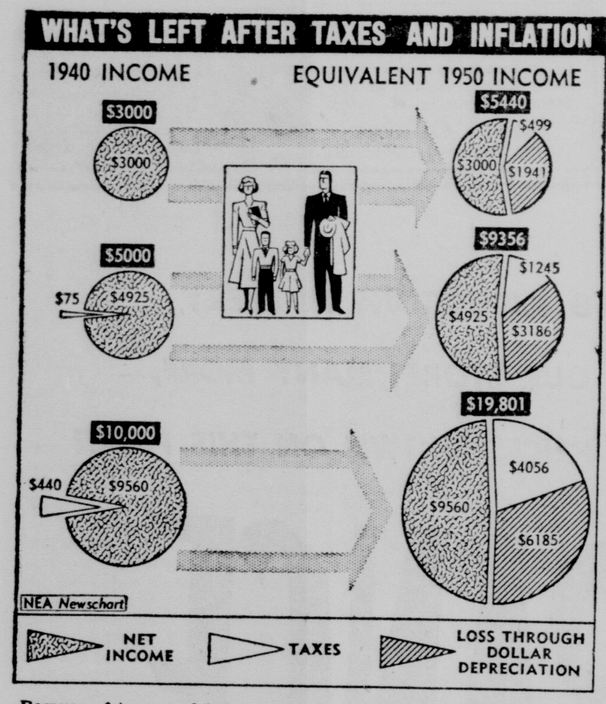
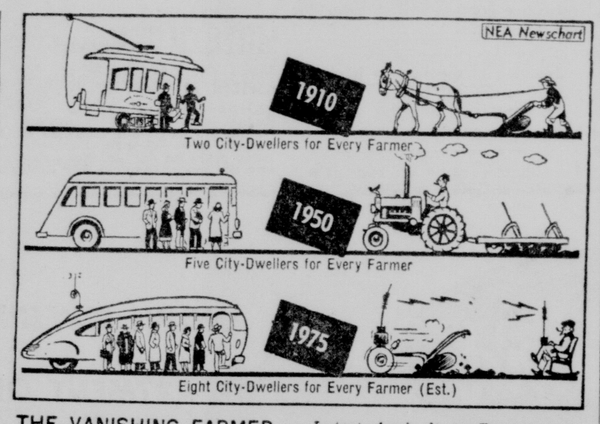
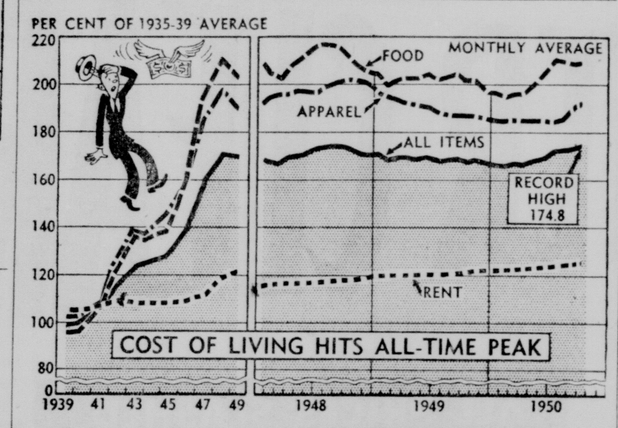
UPS AND DOWNS OF LIFE IN 1950



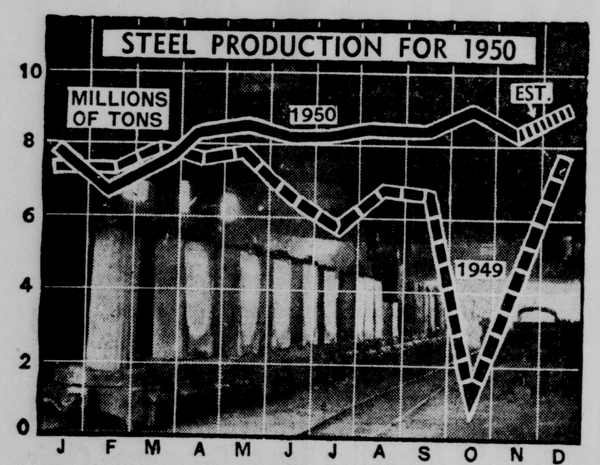
Because of taxes and inflation, you had to earn a lot more in 1950 to be able to buy as much as you did in 1940. The Newschart above, based on data from the National Industrial Conference Board, shows how much a family man with two children, in each of three brackets, had to earn in 1950 to keep pace with his 1940 income.



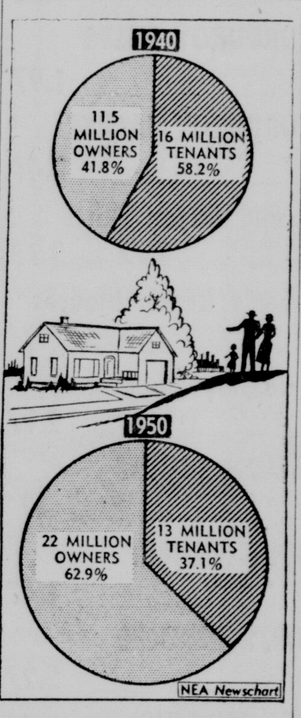
THE VANISHING FARMER — Latest Agriculture Department statistics indicate you just can't keep 'em down on the farm. Newschart, above, illustrates the long-range trend, spurred by improved farming techniques and machinery. With these, fewer farm workers are required to feed the nation. At present, about 27 million Americans, or 18 per cent of the population, live on farms, compared with 32 million in 1910.



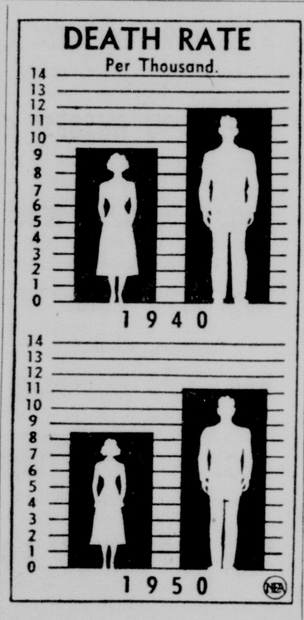
John Q. Public was hit harder than ever by inflation in 1950, as a study of the Department of Labor's price index above shows. In October the index hit an all-time high of 174.8—having passed the previous peak of September, 1948—and kept climbing. Best guess for the immediate future is for more inflation.



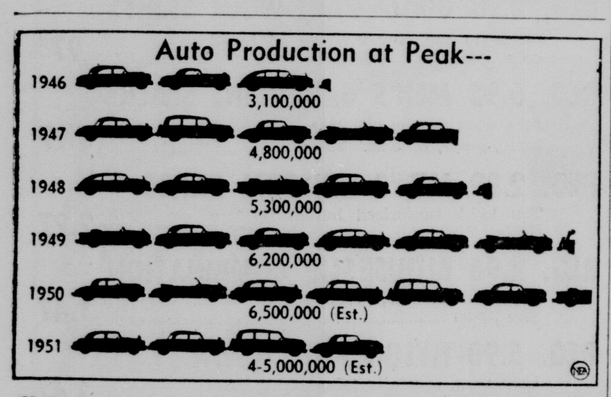
Newschart, above—based on American Iron and Steel Institute figures—gives tonnage of steel for ingots and castings poured during 1950 on a monthly basis. Chart also compares the record year with 1949 when coal and steel strikes in the last quarter sharply reduced output. Big snowstorm late in November, 1950, caused loss in production of about 450 million tons. Thus 1950 output is expected to be 96.5 million tons, still an all-time record, instead of the 97 million tons previously figured on.



MORE HOME OWNERS—Newschart above, based on figures from the publication "Savings and Home Ownership," indicates that in 1950 we were rapidly becoming a nation of home owners instead of renters—until the national emergency threw a roadblock in the way. Most of the five and a half million new single-family dwellings started since Jan. 1, 1940, were purchased by families for their own occupancy.



American women continue to outlast the so-called "rugged" male sex, according to the U. S. Public Health Service. The Newschart above shows that while annual death rates for both men and women decreased in 1950, the women's rate is going down faster. Estimated 1950 figure for women is 8.3 per 1000, and for men 11.2.



U. S. auto, truck and bus production, on the rise since World War II ended, is expected to drop off sharply in 1951 as a result of the new rearmament program. How much it will fall from this year's record 6,500,000 units is anybody's guess. Some experts predict "somewhere between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000," but impact of war mobilization on the industry will call the turn.

Peasants Given Land

DAMASCUS, Syria—(AP)—Husayn Ibish, a wealthy Syrian landowner, has given 14,500 acres of land to Syrian peasants, including 7,000 acres of public land he drained and made useful at his own expense.

Ibish, regarded as an enlightened landlord, says he believes that the pasants, who have lived on and worked the land for generations, are entitled to possess at least a part of it. Land ownership in middle eastern countries is generally confined to a small percentage of large land holders. Western observers regard this as a dangerous situation in a part of the world threatened by Communists.

Snow Damages Crops

TEHRAN, Iran — (AP) — Early snow falls and unseasonable cold in the Caspian area has caused extensive damage to the crops of oranges and other citrus fruits.

There are more physicians in Washington, D. C., in proportion to its area and population, than in any other American city.

Five-Day Prayer for Peace

IPOH, Malaya —(AP)— A continuous five-day prayer for world peace is being planned by the new Chinese Buddhist Temple in nearby Jalan Bendahara.

Aboard a battleship only one man is allowed to whistle. He is the boatswain, who signals the crew with his "pipe."

UN Admits Failures In Korea

Delegates Meet To Discuss Steps Now Open To Group

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 4—(AP)—The U. N. cease-fire committee has acknowledged failure in its efforts to stop the fighting in Korea. U. S. delegate Warren R. Austin, promptly said American troops will fight on against aggression in Korea and urged the free world to stand together in the hope of averting a world war.

United States delegates met late today with delegates of Britain, Cuba, Ecuador, France and Norway to discuss the next step.

These powers are sponsoring a U. N. resolution calling for Communist China to withdraw her troops from Korea. The U. S. was reported seeking support for a stronger resolution labelling Communist China as the aggressor, but a spokesman said no formal resolution has yet been drafted.

Rau Speaks For Committee

Sir Benegal N. Rau of India told the 60-nation political committee of the General Assembly that the three-man cease fire group was not able to find a satisfactory arrangement to stop the fighting. He said the group had no recommendations now, but insisted that "every honorable avenue should be explored to maintain peace."

"If by mischance there should be a third world war," Rau said, "then history would record that the United Nations had done everything humanly possible to avert it."

Austin called on the U. N. to show the Chinese Reds how bad their Korean adventure is bound to prove for them, saying in that way "we can hope to avert the tragic consequences of an extension or a continuation of the conflict."

No Room For Appeasement

"In the view of my government, aggression must be resisted," Austin said. "There can be no appeasement. The United Nations is engaged in its peace-making functions in the use of such force as has been used and will continue to be used. The people of the free world, acting through the United Nations, must decide how the charter can best be upheld."

Voicing American determination to continue fighting against aggression, Austin said:

"If hostilities continue, our troops will fight on in Korea. This is in keeping with our understanding of the responsibilities laid on all members by the resolutions of the Security Council and of the General Assembly."

Still Seek Objective

Austin said the United States believes that the U. N. should keep on trying to achieve its objective in Korea by peaceful means.

"Accordingly," he said, "my government remains ready to engage in discussions with the Chinese Communist regime at an appropriate time and in an appropriate forum."

U. S. delegation sources said the U. N. would be an appropriate forum.

Jolson's Widow Assured Of Over $3,000 Monthly

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 4 —(AP)—Al Jolson's widow, Erle was assured today of a monthly income of $3,333 pending settlement of his $4,000,000 estate.

Superior Judge Newcomb Condee granted the sum as he admitted the comedian's will to probate here. It was filed in New York.

About a million dollars of the estate is in California. Jolson died in San Francisco about two months ago.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS WASTE

When kidney function slows down, many folks complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Don't suffer longer with these discomforts if reduced kidney function is getting you down—due to such common causes as stress and strain, over-exertion or exposure to cold. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages.

Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While often otherwise caused, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Ex-Cashier Admits Huge Embezzlement

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 4 — (AP) — A former general cashier at the Hotel Sheraton admitted embezzlements totaling $12,000 in a deposition filed in the U. S. district court.

She is Miss Martha MacLean. She is not charged and an attorney for the hotel said no charges are planned.

The deposition stated she had taken various sums during the last ten of the 23 years she worked for the hotel. The money was used for doctors' bills, she said. She now is confined to her home by illness.

The deposition was filed during a hearing of a suit by the hotel against the employers Mutual Liability Insurance Company of Wisconsin. The hotel seeks recovery of the $12,000 from the insurance company with which it had a policy.

It Will be Just Another Dizzy Year For Girls

By Cynthia Lowry
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The calendar year 1951 will be as confusing for women as was 1950.

During the forthcoming 12 months an estimated 1,213 males (all of them husbands) will write gently teasing articles explaining how they spent all day Saturday in the basement futilely trying to adjust the humidifer on the furnace and how their wife came down to the cellar, wacked a water pipe with the heel of her slipper and the humidifier started to work again. (205 of these articles will be sold to magazines, most of them for about $40 each.)

In the same period of time 16 males, without revealing their current marital status, will write savage, slashing attacks of about 5,000 words each on the subject of women, accusing them of responsibility for every word ailment, including Silver Cordism, the prevalence of the Dutch Elm Disease and the declining population of the yo-yo. (16 ofthese articles will be sold to magazines, for prices in excess of $1,500 each).

An estimated 1,293,451 articles will be written about women, each one of them containing the information that women control 80 percent of the nation's wealth, followed by a sad, rather wistful commentary that it's too bad women don't exericse their power.

Four women, whose names are already household words, will be elected to the Board of Directors of large corporations and 2,156 newspaper editorials will be written about each one, followed by the comment that their election shows that women are really making headway in the upper echelons of big business.

Sixty women columnists will write some 6,872 columns read by a total of 75,000,000 women exhorting them to organize and DO SOMETHING about the state of the owrld, assuring them that it is within their power, yet never suggesting just what could be done by organized woman-power.

Sixty male columnists will write some 60 columns telling about the woman who was puzzled when her bank said she was overdrawn because she still had some checks left, and another 60 columns about the woman who always asked the butcher on the telephone if he had some nice pork chops and believed him when he always answered yes. Most males readers and no women readers will find these amusing.

Two men will write full-length books on how they took over the household chores when their respective wives took sick and how they reduced housekeeping chores, including darning, to 15 minutes a day. One of the authors, who will write in a gay, lighthearted style, will have a best-seller on his hands.

Fifty thousand women will keep diaries of their experiences during their first pregnancies, 50 of which will later appear as magazine articles, one as a full-length book (this will be written by a doctor's wife who was a newspaperwoman before her marriage) and the remainder will ultimately go into an attic trunk.

With more job openings, the remaining 1,223 domestics will resign for factory employment and 325 articles will be written about the disappearing domestic," while 1,215,988 middle-aged women will complain about having to do their own housework again.

Some 2,398 personnel managers and two corporation president will issue statements that women will make competent employes in meticulous jobs which do not require heavy lifting.

The entire army of cartoonists and male writers will at some point draw or write a little joke about women drivers, having to do either with parking, hand signals, ripped-off fenders or backing up.

There will be approximately 25,000 cartoons involving women's hats, and 74,932 husbands will draw painful looks from their wives by wearing women's hats for laughs at mixed gatherings.

Approximately 176 books will be written explaining that any woman can be popular if she shows other people she is really interested in them, not herself, and that ta woman doesn't have to be beautiful to be popular. And that a woman really can have fun after 35.

All movie actresses, with a few notable exceptions, will keep their ages a dark secret. The exceptions will take particular pains to announce their ages on every public occasion. The nation's woman will suspect all of them, including the exceptions, are well over 50.

Community Hall Opened Dec. 26

The grand opening of the St. Joseph Community hall, which will serve the whole community of Clifton City, was held the evening of December 26, with a dance and refreshments. The building, made of galvanized steel by Columbia Steel Tank company of Kansas City, is 30x46 feet and is 14 feet high. It is on a concrete base. All of the work on the building was done by the men of the Holy Name society. The proceeds from activities in the hall will go to support the school bus from Clifton City to the Catholic schools in Sedalia. Father Patrick Hanley is pastor of the church.

Music And Dance For the Shriners

Saturday night 120 Shriners and guests assembled at the Bothwell hotel at 6:30 o'clock. The invocation was given by Dr. F. O. Murphy. The president, Lee Deason, announced the master of ceremonies, Dean Binderup, who introduced a male quartet composed of Addison Taylor, Charles Maggard, Al Domingue and Dean Binderup, accompanied by Mrs. Nellie Monegan.

Mr. Binderup introduced Mrs. Peggy Hewett Homan, dance instructor, who assembled 15 dance selections by 20 of her students.

There was dancing to the music to Lee Brandt.

Truman Letter-Writing May Pay Unexpected Dividends

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON.—It looks as if the "Man of Letters" in the White House is going to make a lot of money for the recipients of those letters.

Out in Denver, Dr. Neal Bishop, who suggested to Mr. Truman that John L. Lewis be appointed ambassador to Russia, is going to auction off his Trumanesque reply for the benefit of the Denver Community Chest.

The reply, which stated that he, Truman, would not even appoint John L. as dogcatcher, should bring a large amount of money—though Bishop has generously given the letter to the Community Chest and they will make the profit.

Meanwhile, in Washington, Paul Hume, the Washington Post music critic, has turned down various offers for his letter regarding Margaret Truman's singing. One offer is reputed in five figures.

If Mr. Hume ever does decide to sell this coveted letter, it can make him much more dough than he realizes, for he will only have to pay a capital gains tax of 25 per cent on the sale. In other words, the Truman letter is not earned income, but a special personal gift from the President of the United States. A gift is not taxable until it is sold, and as long as Mr. Hume keeps the letter more than six months, his tax will be only 25 per cent.

If Treasury agents argue about this, Mr. Hume can tell them quite truthfully that his letter is something which happens only once in a lifetime, that it was an unsolicited gift from the President, and that if any gift tax is paid it should come out of Harry Truman's pocket, not his.

Other people who got indignant letters from the President can also cash in on this nice low-bracket tax. In brief, the President has been awfully kind to Mr. Hume, to Bernie Baruch, to Mr. Bishop, to Jimmie Byrnes and others. The only one he has slighted is me. Because when he hurled the "servant of brotherhood" charge in my direction, he did it orally. He did not write a letter.

Someday, if I can get up nerve enough, I am going to ask Mr. Truman to put it in writing, so I can have something either to hand down to my children or else sell under a capital gains tax. Having been the first to arouse public presidential ire, I think the President owes it to me to put it in writing.

NOTE—Anyone who wants to bid on the Truman letter black-balling John L. Lewis as dogcatcher can wire the Denver Press club.

New Order of Draft

Selective Service Director Lewis Hershey is recommending the following changes in the draft law to the new session of Congress:

1. That the draft age be lowered from 19 to 18 years, with the maximum age limit kept at 25.

2. That deferments of enlistees in the organized reserves and the National Guard be stopped.

3. That draft eligibles between 18 and 25 be taken in the following order: First, all unmarried college students except the top third in their classes; second, married nonvets without children; third, unmarried veterans; last, nonvets with children.

Increased Living Cost

One thing that has stumped price czars Alan Valentine and Mike DiSalle is that they cannot impose over-all price controls on certain farm products until the cost of living goes up even more.

This is because the farm bloc in Congress inserted a provision in the price control bill whereby certain farm prices cannot be controlled at a point under parity or under the price of last May and June.

Because of this, the Agriculture Department has advised the big bakers and millers that they face no early price control. Bread will have to increase one or two cents a loaf to permit price controls, Ralph Trigg, the department's production and marketing boss, privately informed bakers and millers last week.

The Agriculture Department has also informed economic stabilizer Valentine that over-all controls on farm products would raise the nation's food bill from 5 to 10 per cent because of the number of commodities now below parity prices.

Meat Price Ceilings

Of the foods that will be controlled, beef, lamb and veal top the list. All are above parity. Price administrator DiSalle will have a meeting with Chicago meat-packers and western cattlemen this month and expects to put a price ceiling on meat in February. It will take at least that time for him to get organized.

Next to meat, products most likely to be controlled include cotton, raisins, rice, flue-cured tobacco, and possibly cottonseed oil, all of which are above parity. Valentine and DiSalle are hesitant about controlling wool, also above parity, for fear of discouraging domestic production of this critically short war essential.

Publicly, the Agriculture Department has taken an aloof position on farm price ceilings, but privately it has submitted the following list of farm products for possible control:

Wool, about 29 per cent above parity; cotton, 27 per cent above; sheep, 10 per cent above; beef cattle, 5 per cent above; rice, 2 per cent above; tobacco, 2 per cent above; and lamb, 1 per cent above.

The list also shows these items to be below parity: Hogs, 10 per cent; peanuts, 12 per cent; milk for processing, 12 per cent; soy beans, 12 per cent; butter fat, 13 per cent; eggs, 14 per cent; wheat, 15 per cent; edible dry beans, 16 per cent; corn, 18 per cent; chickens, 25 per cent; oats, 18 per cent; potatoes, 51 per cent; and oranges, 60 per cent.

Silver Bullets

A plan to use "silver bullets," the ancient and still most effective weapon in China, is being carefully studied by U.S. strategists.

One specific proposal offers hard cash and a guarantee of food to Chinese who surrender to United Nations forces in Korea. A soldier with rifle or pistol would get $10 plus six months food rations. A soldier surrendering a mortar would get one ounce of gold, and so on up to five gold bars (10 ounces) to be given for the surrendering of a plane or a unit commander surrendering with his troops.

Intelligence reports from the front reveal that only a fraction of the Chinese troops fighting in Korea are hard-bitten Communists not susceptible to silver bullets.

Washington Pipeline

Friends of Herbert Hoover are telling how he cleared his recent keep-out-of-Europe speech with four 4-star generals in the Pentagon. . . . . George Sokolsky is given credit for ghosting most of the Hoover sermon. . . . Keep an eye on Ernest Kai, alert Honolulu attorney as the probable next governor of Hawaii. Part Chinese, Kai is being boosted as an answer to the Moscow propaganda that we discriminate against Orientals.

Your New Social Security

By Scott Webber

(Manager of the Sedalia Social Security Office)

There is a provision of old-age and survivors insurance known as the "work clause." It has to do with conditions under which you can accept your monthly insurance payments while still earning other income.

Before the enactment of the amended law a beneficiary could not accept payments if his other earnings were more than $14.99 monthly That figure has now been raised to $50 a month. Before I discuss this further, however, it is well to point out one significant fact. This amount of earnings applies to wages from employment, or net earnings from self-employment in work that comes under social security. This was so under the original law, but it is well to remember that earnings from most kinds of work are now credited toward old-age and survivors insurance.

Let me explain this by giving an example. Under the old law, a retired, insured worker could operate a shop and still receive his retirement payments. As he was self-employed, there was no restriction on the monthly amount he might earn and still accept his social security check for that month. Now, most kinds of self-employment come under social security. Beginning January 1, federal old-age insurance is not payable for one or more months if he has net earnings averaging more than $50 a month for the taxable year while substantially engaged in self-employment. In case his net earnings are in excess of this amount, the number of benefit checks not payable will depend on the total amount of his earnings during the year. Beginning in January, he should notify his social security office if he expects his net earnings from substantial work in self-employment will be more than $600 for the year.

If the insured and retired worker is not eligible to accept his monthly insurance check because of earnings from employment or from self-employment, members of his family, entitled to insurance payments as his dependents, can not accept their checks. However, if a member of his family who is receiving monthly insurance payments as his dependent, has more than $50 from employment or self-employment in a month, only that dependent's insurance payment will be stopped.

This $50 maximum on earnings while receiving payments applies only to persons under 75. After that age, any amount of earnings from employment or self-employment in any kind of work will not interfere with social security payments. Both the insured retired worker who is working, and his dependents, may then accept all of their monthly payments under social security.

Next week I shall tell about workers for non-profit organizations, and outline the provisions of the amended law whereby they may become eligible for federal old-age and survivors insurance under social security.

Looking Backward

• Forty Years Ago

A life-size photograph of Judge Henry Lamm of Sedalia, one of the supreme court judges of Missouri, and portraits of Judges Ryland and Strother, former judges of the Pettis county circuit court, were placed on the east wall of the circuit court room.

The Doctor Says—

Victim Remembers Little of Frightening Epilepsy Fit

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

A convulsion or "fit" in a child is alarming. The parents naturally become deeply disturbed and worried and want to know whether it must be considered as the sign of some serious disease.

Epilepsy, which is a disease of the nervous system, is the most common cause. However, there are some children who have convulsions which do not appear to be related to this disorder.

They are usually somewhat "nervous" children, but neither this nor any other feature of their physical or mental make-up seems to explain why they should develop "fits." But fortunately they seem to get over the convulsions as they grow older without having suffered any permanent ill effects.

It is important to find the cause of fits especially if they are a sign of epilepsy. This can be done much better now than in the past thanks to the discovery and development of an instrument called the electroencephalograph which measures the electrical waves in the brain.

Not only are the waves which can be recorded by this machine different in epilepsy from those of a normal person, but the information which is obtained is of great help in deciding the seriousness of the epilepsy, what medicines to give, and how the patient is responding to treatment.

Epilepsy is not equally serious for all those who are afflicted with it. The less serious variety is called petit mal; in this there are usually no convulsions but only spells of brief loss of consciousness. The treatment of petit mal is likely to be quite successful able today.

The more frightening form of epilepsy, known as grand mal, is accompanied by convulsions and loss of consciousness. A typical attack does not come without warning. On the contrary most of those who suffer from attacks get peculiar sensations for days or hours before the fit takes place.

These sensations are called the "aura" and they may take different forms. Sometimes the aura is noticed in the vision, sometimes it is merely a strange feeling in the abdomen.

New Treatments

The attack itself is often more unpleasant to the onlooker than to the one who has it. A loud scream or cry may occur at the beginning. The victim quickly becomes unconscious but muscular movements occur such as a drawing back of the head, tightening the fists and straightening the legs.

The face gets red and a person who has never seen an epileptic attack may feel that death is close. But the victim recovers, and having become unconscious remembers nothing about the attack.

The purpose of treatment at present is to make the attacks less severe and farther apart. While treatment is not yet perfect many are helped by drugs and the outlook is by no means as dark as it used to be.

Share Leisure Activities If You'd Avoid Boredom

When a marriage seems dull and a couple seems to have less and less to talk about, chances are they are misusing the leisure time they have together.

In the modern set-up, the average wife shares little in her husband's career. It takes him away from home all day and when he returns at night he is reluctant to talk about it, either because anything he tells will require too much explaining, or because he has had enough of business during the day and wants to escape it.

His wife's daytime existence, if she spends her full time keeping house, is much too routine to interest her husband. What she can tell him about her day that he will find interesting can be told in 10 minutes.

That means that if they are to enjoy each other's company and feel any sort of comradeship they must find it in the way they spend their leisure time together.

Many couples ignore that fact and squander their free time together. One evening is just like another. They sit and read, or listen to the radio or watch television, or they sit and play cards or she sits upstairs and sews while he tinkers in the basement. But mostly they just sit. Is it any wonder they are bored with each other's company? Or that they have little to say to each other?

A planned use of that same leisure time would pep up many dull marriages. The leisure could be used to learn something together, to work together on some project, to enjoy some new kind of recreation.

A couple that is working side by side in the yard, refinishing furniture, learning a foreign language, playing golf, square dancing, or working on some community welfare project isn't bored. They don't have trouble finding something to talk about. They're DOING something with leisure time, instead of trying to kill it

What's RIGHT?

Two weeks have gone by since you sent a wedding gift —and you have received no thank-you note from the bride.

WRONG: Write and ask if she received the gift.

RIGHT: Wait a while before inquiring, since the chances are that the gift was received but the bride is just slow in getting her thank-you notes written.

You see a doctor or lawyer you happen to know at a social gathering.

WRONG: Decide it is a good time to get a little free professional advice.

RIGHT: Make an appointment and see him at his office. Don't bother him with your problems when he is enjoying a social evening.

• Q's and A's

Q—Is there a compulsory retirement age for airline pilots?

A—The government, through the civil aeronautics administration, has power to deny renewal of a license to an airline pilot for physical disability, but it has not yet recognized any age limit for compulsory retirement.

Q—Where was calypso singing first popular?

A—Calypsos originally were sung at carnivals in Trinidad, British West Indies. The words, usually impromptu and satirical, were sung to the accompaniment of a guitar.

Q—Why is Thespian hall in Boonville, Missouri, of particular interest?

A—This hall is said to be the oldest theatre in continuous operation west of the Alleghenies.

This Last Night

THE STORY: May, a waitress in Pete's tavern in a West Virginia coal mining town, is curious about a stranger, dressed like a miner, who occupies one of the booths. The man looks tired, and as if he were afraid, or in great sorrow. When the radio starts a news broadcast, the stranger listens. A commentator tells the story of what he terms "a miscarriage of justice." The father of a little girl, Judy Twing, returned from the war and found his wife had left him for another man. The father committed suicide, and his brother, Paul Twing, had attempted to obtain legal custody of Judy, but had failed and the child had remained with her unworthy mother. Then Paul Twing had met the child after school one day and had taken her away. Now Paul Twing was charged with kidnaping, a crime punishable by death. The stranger in the tavern, after the broadcast, tells May that a $5000 reward would result in Paul Twing's quick capture. But May asks: "Who would take such money?"

III

THE man at the table made an explosive, derisive sound in answer to May's question.

"Plenty of people would grab $5000," he said. "You know, everyone isn't as ready as you to swallow the story as that commentator told it." He gestured with his thumb toward the radio. "Maybe they figure that Paul Twing must be wrong or the courts wouldn't have let the mother keep the kid. How about that? How do you know he's got the facts straight?"

His cynicism infuriated her. The incessant toying with the beer glass tore at her nerves. She ripped the glass from his fingers and, leaning on the table, fired her words right at him.

"Then tell me why the father killed himself! Tell me why Judy told the stories she did about the way her mother treated her! Sure, those smart lawyers said she made it up and they brought in a bunch of her friends to tell about stories the little girl had told, but what normal kid doesn't make up stories when it's for fun?

"And tell me this: why, if it isn't true, did the uncle go to all that expense and trouble to fight it through the courts and then take the chance he's taking now to get her away from that woman? Why?" she demanded, breathing angrily, waiting for his reply.

He wrinkled his brow and pursed his lips as though weighing her words. "What chance has he got of getting away with it?" he asked quietly. His eyes met hers.

She stood erect and stared out of the window into the barren street. She felt dejected and spent. "I don't know," she said, "but he must have some plan. He must have thought it out first. He probably has some woman with him, someone who loved him enough to share the chance."

"Why a woman?"

"I just thought he might," she shrugged. "It would be easier. They're looking for a man and a little girl. If he has a woman with him and maybe dressed Judy up as a boy they'd have a better chance."

ONE of the men at the other table tapped on his empty glass with a coin. May went off to serve them. She felt his eyes on her the whole time she was away.

"Can't you sit while we talk?" he asked when she returned. He indicated the seat on the other side of the booth.

She shook her head.

"What's your name?" He leaned toward her. She noticed that his fists were clenched. The way he had asked the question made it seem as though there were some deadly serious purpose behind it. It was a little frightening.

"May," she answered, "May Jenkins."

"Are you married, engaged—is there a boy friend?"

"Oh look, brother, I . . ."

He reached out and took her hand. "Wait a minute, May. You're wrong. This isn what you think it is. I'm not on the make and I'm not just a nosy guy. Look, instead of my asking you a lot of questions, I'll tell you frankly how I size you up. Then, if you want, you can tell me if I'm right or wrong, or tell me where to get off."

She withdrew her hand from his. His questions and his manner confused her. He wasn't trying to be fresh. He was excited and nervous. She knew that she was reacting to his apparent tension.

It would be better if she walked away, but she said, "Go ahead. I'll see how I like it."

He smiled his gratitude. He studied her before speaking. She realized that she was blushing. She was conscious of her too thin figure, her rough hands. His voice was soothing.

"You're about twenty-two or three, May. My guess is that you were born nearby and have never been far away. Your father was probably a coal miner. You've had a pretty rough time of it. I don't think you're married or engaged and I don't think you have too serious a boy friend. I think you live alone, May, and I don't think you're happy."

SHE looked down at the table. It was as though he had torn the clothes from her. No, not torn, it was too gentle. She spoke huskily. "I'm twenty-four."

"And the rest is right?"

She met his eyes again. It required an effort. "Why don't you think I'm married or engaged or have a boy friend?"

He pointed to her hand. "You're not wearing any rings and as far as the boy friend is concerned, I just feel that if I was your guy I'd raise particular cain if you took a job in a dump like this."

A touch of warmth mingled with her embarrassment. It was such a little thing, but this man had a way of saying things that made her want to believe him.

IV

A COMPLIMENT without a leer was an uncommon experience for May Jenkins. She savored it but at the same time a fierce rebellion grew within her. To find so much pleasure in such simple flattery made her acutely aware of the meanness of her surroundings, of the life she had lived, of what she must seem to be to this man.

Her eyes sought him again. She found his face serious, anxious, searching. He had not probed into her life out of idle curiosity. There must be something more he planned to ask or say. She stared at him, waiting, expectant.

He drew his hand across his lips, then turned in his seat and scanned the room. No one was paying any attention to them. The men with the hats still talked. Pete was still absorbed in his paper. The radio blared loudly, ignored.

The man slid along his seat until he was perched at the very edge His shoulder brushed her. His eyes tightened and he bit his lips. He seemed to be fighting something in his mind or heart. He took a deep breath and seized the edge of the table in a grip that made his hands white. The whisper that escaped from his lips bristled with apprehension.

"I am Paul Twing."

May heard a sharp gasp that must have sprung from her own lips.

"I am! I'm Paul Twing!" he repeated with hot, muted urgency. She could see beads of perspiration breaking out on his white forehead. He shifted around till his feet were clear of the table, never taking his eyes from her.

Through the giddy cloud that seemed to envelop her she saw and recognized the fear that her staring silence had created. He was poised, ready to run for the door.

She swallowed hard, trying to make room for her voice.

"You!" she managed to eject. She shook her head. "No. You're a coal miner."

HE wiped his hands on his trousers, then thrust them out palms up, for her to examine.

"You're not a miner!" she decided.

"No," he breathed. "You're not afraid of me, are you?"

She matched her voice to his. "No, I'm not afraid—not if you're Paul Twing." The moment seemed artificial. This couldn't be the man she'd been hearing about, reading about, thinking about—not here in the same room with her, talking to her. But there was no sham or mockery in his fear-bright eyes.

She leaned even closer to him. "If you are who you say you are, where is she?"

"Sleeping." His stiff shoulders settled a bit. "I left her asleep in the car. It's in a safe place. I had to get away. I had to hear a news broadcast. There's no radio in the car. I needed talk, somebody to talk to. I guess I'm worked up and on edge. I haven't had much sleep."

It just couldn't be true, but, still, it had to be.

"Don't you believe me?" he pleaded.

Her answer was slow. "I don't know. Why did you tell me who you are?"

He looked down at the chipped black glass of the table. His low voice was hesitant, doubtful.

"I don't know. Oh, I had a reason. Maybe I'm screwy. Maybe worry and lack of sleep have got me thinking cockeyed, but from the way you reacted to the broadcast, the things you said and the things you've let me find out about your life . . ." He stopped, then he tore his eyes from the table and looked up at her.

"You said that you thought I might be traveling with a woman —that my chances would be better if I were traveling with a woman and had Judy dressed as a boy. Judy is dressed as a boy, but there is no woman."

MAY knew what he was going to ask. Any doubts she had of his identity fled. This was Paul Twing. This was the man the FBI and the police of many states were searching for—a man with a price on his head—a man facing the death sentence for the crime he had committed, and he was about to ask her to come with him.

Why? Why should she go with him? The tumultous hammering of her heart told her she was frightened, terribly frightened at the thought of it. Why should she give up the little she had. Tomorrow. Something might happen tomorrow that would . . . yet, something had happened tonight.

All week she had been thinking about this very man—thinking of him as a hero, a crusader. Here he was. She'd met him, talked with him, he seemed no less.

Through the endless drudgery of her barren existence she had so often wished she had something to work for, even to suffer for, something that could lend her life some meaning, a cause. He was fighting a cause and he wanted her with him. He offered her that. He offered her adventure, excitement—maybe death.

The Good Cook Books Save Money

By Gaynor Maddox
NEA Staff Writer

Food costs too much these days for any housewife to gamble on her recipes. That's where reliable cook books come into the budget picture.

"Family Fare," a 96-page book published by the United States department of agriculture for 25 cents, is one of the best guides to family cooking I have seen all year. It might be a very practical resolution for 1951 to order this little treasure house of recipes and food management from the United States Government Printing Office, Washington, 25, D. C., and then practice what it teaches.

The newest addition to cookery books is "The Main Line Cook Book," by Ethel W. Stokes and Mary H. Huber of Philadelphia. It's a gourmet's guide to wonderful regional cooking. Certainly the food is magnificent even though generally the recipes and menus would strain the average budget. There are exceptions—many of them. Here is a delicious one:

Squash Fritters

One egg, ½ cup flour, ½ cup milk, ⅛ teaspoon salt, pepper, 2 cups squash cooked, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 2 tablespoons butter, melted, bacon fat.

Place egg in bowl, beat well, add flour, milk, salt and pepper, squash that has been previously boiled and put through a ricer, melted butter. Blend well, Add the baking powder, stir lightly together, drop from end of spoon into deep bacon fat-350 degrees F. Fry until a golden brown. For a variant: Grease the inside of baking dish well with bacon fat, fill with left-over squash and a dash of cream. Place bacon strips on top. Dust generously with cheese, bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until lightly browned.

For women who like to bake, Ann Seranne has written the new "Complete Book of Home Baking." It contains 1000 recipes, covering about everything from strudel to angel food.

There are many other good new food books, including "The Practical Book of Food Shopping" by Helen S. Hovey and Kay Reynolds. Also "Good Food From Mexico" by Ruth Watt Mulvey and Luisa Maria Alvarez and "Continental Dessert Delicacies" by Alice Sidon of San Francisco.

MENU

DINNER — Roast loin of pork, broken gravy, applesauce with horseradish, baked sweet potatoes, broccoli with buttered almonds, rye rolls, butter or fortified margarine, celery, olives, radishes, raisin cranberry pie, coffee, milk.

SUPPER — Oyster stew, oyster crackers, vegetable salad, devil's food cake, tea or milk.

Meet of Bothwell Homemakers

The Bothwell Homemakers club held its regular meeting at the home of Henry Hutchison, route 4, Sedalia, with eighteen members, nine children and four visitors, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry, Mrs. McCown and Mrs. Clarence Reed, present.

The meeting was opened with the devotional. Mrs. Earl Dirck read the Christmas story. Roll call was answered with "What I Want for Christmas." There was an exchange of Christmas gifts and Mrs. Hutchison opened the hostess gifts during the afternoon. A number of Christmas carols were sung.

A. E. C. Aids Medical Research

RICHLAND, Wash. — (AP) — A system of complete scientific freedom is working alongside the nation's tightest atomic secrecy, enforced in the nearby Hanford Plutonium Bomb plants.

The freedom is in radioactive research in medicine, biology, biophysics and cancer. The United States Atomic Energy commission supplies the radioactive materials to scientists and urges them to work on their own ideas.

The scientists work in their own laboratories or at their own institutions. The commission does not attempt to tel lthem what to do. All that is required is that the scientist sell his idea to the administration. A group of seven educational institutions in the northwest now get about half a million dollars for atomic research projects.

MENU

BREAKFAST— Tangerines, oatmeal, raisin toast, butter or fortified margarine, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Frankfurters, scalloped potatoes, cabbage and apple salad, enriched bread, butter or fortified margarine, honey cookies, tea or milk.

DINNER — Oven broiled chicken, pan gravy, cranberry sauce, mashed potatoes, chopped spinach, enriched rolls, butter or fortified margarine, apple pie, coffee, milk.

Pork And Potatoes in Big Supply

By Gaynor Maddox
NEA Staff Writer

There is a lot of good food around. And the more there is of any one kind, the less that kind is likely to cost.

How about making a budget resolution for 1951 — a resolution to buy foods on the plentiful list as much as possible?

first day of the ndry cmfwypb

Let's start right now in the early days of the New Year by studying the list of plentiful foods for anuary. The list is prepared by the marketing experts of the United States department of agriculture.

The department urges homemakers to use pork, eggs and potatoes a lot because these foods are expected to be particularly plentiful. Of course, there may be local and temporary upsets of this picture, but in general it will be pork, eggs and potatoes for economy this month throughout the country.

Here's the complete list. Study it carefully and check prices:

Fruits and Vegetables

Apples, cabbage, cranberries, onions, grapefruit, potatoes, oranges, sauerkraut, tangerines and spinach.

Meats, Poultry

Broilers and fryers, pork, frozen fish fillets, shrimp, eggs.

Other Foods

Island Spareribs

Three pounds pork spareribs, 3 tablespoons brown sugar, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup vinegar, ½ cup catsup, 1 nine-ounce can crushed pineapple, 1 tablespoon soy sauce.

Cut ribs in serving pieces. Combine sugar, cornstarch and salt and stir in vinegar, catsup, crushed pineapple and juice, and soy sauce. Cook until slightly thickened, about 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Arrange layer of spareribs in roasting pan. Cover with half of pineapple mixture; add second layer of ribs and top with rest of sauce. Cover pan tightly and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 1½ to 2 hours.

Special for Children

PRAGUE — (AP) — The government-owned Czechoslovak Railways has set aside special compartments in passenger coaches for women traveling with children up to six years old.

The National Geographic Society in Washington maintains a geographic library in 20,000 volumes.

Tangerines Put Zip in Salads

TANGERINES, on the plentiful list, make sharp salads.

By Gaynor Maddox
NEA Staff Writer

Oranges, grapefruit and tangerines, all first-grade sources of essential vitamin C, are way up in the January plentiful list of foods. Therefore, this is a good time to make the wise resolution to get adequate amounts of citrus fruit into your family menus EVERY DAY of the year.

Serve citrus fruit juices, citrus fruit sections or citrus fruit salads at least once every day.

Here are some fresh ideas using tangerines, the kid-glove fruit from Florida. Being members of the vitamin C family in first-rate standing, they can play an important role in family pleasure and nutrition.

Tangerine Dessert Cups
(6 Servings)

Six tangerines, 1 grapefruit, 2 tablespoons sugar, optional, 6 pitted dates, cut.

Cut tangerine peel into 8 sections; peel about two-thirds of the way. Carefully remove tangerine sections from tangerine "cup." Cut sections in half with scissors. To section grapefruit, cut off peel in strips from top to bottom. Go over fruit again, removing any remaining white membrane. Cut along side of each dividing membrane from outside to middle of core. Remove section by section. Cut sections with a scissors into thirds. Combine with tangerine sections; sprinkle with sugar if desired. Arrange fruit in tangerine "cups" and top with dates.

Tangerine Slaw
(6 Servings)

Three tangerines, 4 cups shredded cabbage, two tablespoons of chopped green pepper, ½ teaspoon celery seed, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon dry mustard, 2 tablespoons vinegar, ½ cup mayonnaise.

Peel tangerines; remove white membrane. Cut sections in thirds; combine with the cabbage and chopped pepper. Add celery seed, salt, mustard and vinegar to mayonnaise; blend. Pour the dressing over salad and toss well.

MENU

BREAKFAST —Grapefruit juice, shredded wheat, muffins, butter or fortified margarine, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON —Tomato rabbit on buttered toast, red cabbage salad and honey-nut cookies, tea, milk.

Wiener Shortcake is Novelty

FRANKFURTER shortcake is a delicious budget dish.

By Gaynor Maddox
NEA Staff Writer

How about making a budget resolution on this second day of the year — a resolution to try new recipes that give your family eating pleasure and adequate nutrition for the lowest possible price?

Let's start off with this new recipe, developed by Lucy M. Maltby, an old friend of this column:

Frankfurter Shortcake
(About 6-8 Servings)

One-third cup chopped green pepper, ⅔ cup chopped onion, 1 tablespoon fat, 2½ cups canned tomatoes (No. 2 can), ½ teaspoon salt, 1 pound frankfurters, sliced crosswise in small pieces.

Brown green pepper and onion in fat. Remove from heat; add tomatoes, ½ teaspoon salt and frankfurter slices, reserving a few pieces for top. Pour into well-greased heat-resistant glass loaf pan, two-quart size.

Topping

Three-quarters cup sifted flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ¼ teaspoon baking soda, 1 teaspoon salt, ¾ cup cornmeal, 2 tablespoons shortening, 1 egg, ⅔ cup milk.

Sift together flour, baking powder, baking soda and one teaspoon salt. Stir in cornmeal. Cut in shortening until well blended. Beat egg well. Add egg and milk to cornmeal mixture, stir until dry ingredients are just moistened. Pour over frankfurter mixture in loaf pan. Arrange remaining frankfurter slices in top of batter. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) for about 30 minutes.

Sauerkraut, on the plentiful list now, goes perfectly with this shortcake. Here's the recipe my wife inherited from her grandmother who was noted years ago in Rochester, N. Y., for her great hearted hospitality.

Use fresh or canned sauerkraut. Rinse in cold water and place in sauce pan. Add a few caraway seeds, a tablespoon of butter and one tart apple, unpeeled, cut in small pieces. Cover. Simmer for about one hour. It's wonderful stuff!

MENU

BREAKFAST—Orange and grapefruit juice, ready-to-eat cereal, crisp bacon, rye toast, butter or fortified margarine, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON — Vegetable soup, egg salad sandwiches, fruited gelatin, tea, milk.

Planning Menus Eases The Budget

By Gaynor Maddox
NEA Staff Writer

Everybody today is on the hunt for low-cost menus that are nutritionally balanced and pleasant to eat. So how about making a most practical New Year's resolution to plan menus at least a day in advance?

By planning ahead you will have time to study market prices and avoid waste of leftovers. You will also have time to study your cookbooks, selecting new recipes for good dishes at low cost.

For many years, Mrs. Frances Foley Gannon of the New York department of markets has been noted for the low-cost menus she sends out daily. As a New Year's greeting to readers of this column, Mrs. Gannon has planned a few budget menus for us.

DINNER — Barbecued lamb neck slices, baked spinach, margarined parsnips, celery sticks and radish roses, bread, butter or fortified margarine, fruit filled cookies, coffee, milk.

DINNER — Salmon mousse made with non-fat dry milk, steamed spinach, baked potatoes, cabbage and chicory salad, bread, butter or fortified margarine, cranberry tarts, coffee, milk.

DINNER — Stuffed cabbage leaves (stuffed with chopped beef), peas with mushrooms and steamed carrots, bread, butter or fortified margarine, baked pears, coffee, milk.

MENU

BREAKFAST — Orange juice, corn bread, butter or fortified margarine, syrup or honey, crisp bacon, coffee or milk.

LUNCHEON — Split pea soup, croutons, ham sandwiches, celery, baked apples, tea, milk.

Hal Boyle Reports from Korea

By Hal Boyle

— They call themselves "The Icebox Brigade" and "The Frozen Foot."

They are the Eighth army patrols who wade barefoot across icy streams into enemy territory to check on Red movements near the United Nations defense lines.

And these rugged allied heroes have been operating in freezing weather by day and by night along the entire 150 mile battle front.

Besides locating enemy positions they have found evidence that the North Koreans have created army "vengeance squads" to track down and destroy freezing civilian refugees who helped or had contact with the U. N. forces in any way. In some cases the death squad uses girl spies to locate and trap victims.

One such daring patrol that crossed half a dozen frozen streams was led by Major Walter Simonovitch, a former semipro football player from Larksville, Pa. The patrol saved eight Korean civilians marked for execution.

"To ford the stream you have to take off your shoes and socks, wade over, then dry your feet on the other side — otherwise you freeze," said Simonovitch.

"Soon after we got across at daylight we sighted a small group of enemy soldiers on the crest of a hill about 400 yards away. They fired at us and we fired at them. But we had to be careful as we could see there were civilians among them."

One told him gratefully:

"If you hadn't come when you did we would all be dead. We had to try to escape from our home or their revenge agents would have killed us all. Any South or North Korean they suspect of having associated with your troops — his life is ended."

The patrol led the happy fugitives across the river to safety.

"The Reds also have women agents working for them now — regular Mata Haris," said the major.

The night patrols in winter are particularly uncomfortable and perilous. The soldiers who go on them know if they are wounded in a fire fight with the enemy there is a strong likelihood their comrades won't be able to bring them back. And it is a lonely way to die — to freeze slowly in a darkened land with no friend near.

Recently, in one sector of the front, a night patrol set out in a small native boat. The four shivering soldiers in it felt lucky because the ice had melted enough so they could at least use a boat. But it overturned or collapsed under them and all four were thrown into the water.

Three men managed to get to shore. The fourth simply disappeared beneath the floating ice chunks.

A rest of a few days — and then when the next patrol is called some of the three are sure to volunteer. For the eerie nature of such scouting — the thrill of pitting themselves against the enemy man and enemy weather —holds a lure for certain soldiers. Danger is their bread.

(For Hal Boyle)

Jane Russell and Denise Darcel are among the "10 most beautiful if's in America."

The full title for this list is: "The 10 most beautiful women in America if they would only lose 10 pounds."

The list was chosen by Al Roon, "moulder and conditioner of bodies, health authority and reducing expert," who performed these services for the old Ziegfeld follies, Earl Carroll's vanities, movie studios and television producers, and who is active today in physical culture work.

Roon made his nominations because, he says, women should begin to think of adding to their curves again. But they must be careful not to add too much.

Here are his choices and advice for each:

Lana Turner—"Gorgeous, typically American, but needs general weight reduction."

Tallulah Bankhead—"To much around the rectus abdominis region." (That's the waist).

Eleanor Steber, opera star—"Great as she is, if she trimmed down, if she concentrated on intercostal breathing (breathing through the chest) and intercoastal exercises, it would improve her V-shape and even improve her voice."

Anne Jeffreys, star of "Kiss Me Kate"—"A reduction in the gluteus muscles, both maximus and medius, is indicated. That's her dirriere."

Eloise McIlhone, television star —"Wonderful charm and the face of a doll, but she must lose in the thighs and calves."

Frances Langford and Marguerite Piazzo, opera star—"General reduction."

Roon, still talking fearlessly, said the ideal figure for a woman depends on whether her bones are small, medium or large. For a medium-boned woman, he regards this as perfect:

Height, 5', 7"; weight, 135; bust, 36, waist, 25; hips, 36, thighs, 21; calf, 14¼; upper arm, 10¾; forearm, 9.

Tommy and the Atom; The Navy Gets His Ideas

Tommy Pearce, 10, of Arlington, Va., had an idea for an atomic torpedo, so he wrote the Secretary of the Navy the letter, with careful diagram. As a result, Tommy was invited to the Navy department to "exchange armament ideas" with Rear Admiral A. G. Noble, chief of navy ordnance. Admiral Noble, below, shows Tommy a museum piece torpedo.

Eisenhower Calls To Western Europe For Sacrifices Equal US

High Commander Says Tranquility For All World Treaty Purpose

By C. YATES McDANIEL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower today called on western Europe to make "equal sacrifices" with the United States in order to attain world peace.

The newly appointed supreme commander of the western allies coupled this call with a declaration that the sole purpose of the North Atlantic treaty movement is to secure tranquility for "all the world, not just for the western democracies."

General Eisenhower will leave for Europe on Saturday for what he said will be "an exploratory" trip to "reassure myself that we are not working at cross purposes with anybody."

He told a news conference, which included representatives from most nations of the world including Russia, that the American people would have to make greater sacrifices.

"If every American sacrifice is not matched by equal sacrifices by the peoples and governments of the European democracies," Eisenhower stated, "we are not going to win this security."

As examples of sacrifice he mentioned higher taxes and willingness to serve the state in any capacity, military or civilian.

Eisenhower made his statement in uniform. He will tour all of the twelve North Atlantic treaty countries in uniform. But he stressed his belief that his new mission held no "spirit or intent of belligerence."

Sacrifice in Urgency

He said the sacrifices he called for at home and abroad might be achieved "in an orderly fashion, but in a sense of urgency."

Eisenhower also emphasized his conviction that the western nations must "count the cost" of their sacrifices so that no plans or methods employed will "sterilize" their economies. In the long run, he said, "there can be no security without solvency."

His aim, he said, will be to gain the "confidence and willing cooperation" of the allied leaders and people. He said a "growing spirit and willingness to sacrifice and to work with us."

Eisenhower also appeared at a luncheon of senators and government officials. Those who attended quoted him as saying he does not believe it is possible for "190,000,000 backward people"—obviously a reference to Russia—to conquer western civilization.

At his news conference, Eisenhower left no doubt there was much for him and the western nations to do before they can achieve any feeling of security through the organization of their collective strength. He said that as far as he knew the conferences and discussions by the treaty powers to date had produced only "a rough program of intentions."

The general added that he did not see how the western allies could reach any decisions about the specific ratio of forces each would contribute to the common cause until "someone in a position of relative authority can see how the proportions can be fixed and fitted into one planning pattern."

He also said that there could be no talk about the makeup of the western allied staff "even in an embryo stage" at this time. He added that his staff would undoubtedly include officers from all of the 12 treaty nations.

He said he was going to Europe with an open but "not entirely vacant mind" to give him an opportunity to verify his own conception of what has to be done.

Sgt. Delmar Cole Reported Missing

Sgt. Delmar Cole, a former Sedalian, with the 25th Division in Korea, has been reported missing since November 28, according to a message received by his mother, Mrs. Mary Shriver, of Arbela.

Sgt. Cole had his arm wounded in Korea and had been returned to the front lines after recuperating. He served during World War II and reenlisted two and one-half years ago.

He is the grandson of Mrs. Flora Robertson of Dresden and a sister of Mrs. Helen Thompson of Kansas City.

Draft Change To Be Asked Of Congress

New Plans Seek Longer Service, Higher Age Limit

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—(AP)—The defense department is preparing to ask Congress to step up the period of service for draftees from 21 to 27 months, Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the House armed services committee reported today.

He said that military leaders also are considering a request to raise the age limit for inductees, with the new maximum applying to single men and childless married men.

Veterans Still Protected

But Vinson declared there will be no draft of veterans whose past service now protects them from induction. Apparently speaking for his committee, he told reporters:

"We have told the defense department that veterans are not to be drafted."

Another possibility under study by the military planners is a change in the law so as to permit 18-year olds to be called up, for active duty.

The present Selective Service Act permits the induction of men from 19 through 25. All males are required to register with their local boards upon reaching 18, but are not subject to the draft until their 19th birthdays.

Universal Bill Soon

Vinson said he expects the Pentagon to send up within a few days its draft of an overall universal military service bill, including the proposed increase in the time inductees must serve.

He said it is "pretty well settled" that the military will seek the 27 months service limit. He explained that this would be designed to assure 24 months of actual service from each draftee. The other three months would cover such items as processing the men and providing for their terminal leave.

Vinson is insisting that the defense department make a complete review of the present draft deferment policy, including stays given students, men with dependents, and "hardship" cases.

He also wants a resurvey of men rejected for failure to pass military intelligence tests. Vinson repeatedly has contended that the standard of intelligence demanded is too high.

Reserve Hearing Monday

Meanwhile, a subcommittee of Vinson's group, headed by Rep. Brooks (D-La) will open hearings next Monday on the use of reserve components of the military services. Congressional mail has been heavy with complaints from reservists.

In another action, Vinson again chose Rep. Durham (D-NC) to head a special subcommittee which started during the last session to study the progress made in stockpiling strategic war materials.

Coyote Causes Stir On College Campus

GREELEY, Colo., Jan. 4—(AP)—Wolves the co-eds at Colorado State College can take in stride but a coyote caused a flurry on the campus today.

Assistant Police Chief Vern Claus and dogcatcher Bill Miller answered the alarm, captured and caged the animal. So no one can claim that the girls were frightened by an undersized freshman in a racoon coat.

The Meanest Man Alive

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 4—(AP)—What constitutes cruelty?

Mrs. Betty Dimick, 32, contended today that her husband John, 33, was cruel when he came home dunked her in her new tailored suit in a bathtub filled with water.

A judge agreed and gave her a divorce.

Dr. Stauffacher Injured in Fall

Dr. C. Gordon Stauffacher suffered a fracture of his right wrist Wednesday night when he slipped and fell at his home, 820 South Osage avenue. The accident occurred about 10:00 o'clock.

Dr. Stauffacher had started to leave his home to go to his car parked in the back of the residence and as he stepped out the back door, the top step being icy, he slipped and fell, falling down several steps.

He went to the Bothwell hospital where X-ray pictures revealed the fracture. Dr. John E. Lamy adjusted the fracture.

Dr. Stauffacher is not confined to his home.

Old Time Printer Dies At 93 Years

VAN BUREN, Mo., Jan. 4—(AP)—Charles Austin, one of Missouri's old time printers, died early today at a rest home here. He was 93.

In earlier life an employe at intervals of daily newspapers in St. Louis, Kansas City, Memphis, Tenn., Nashville, Tenn., and Chicago, he later returned to the weekly newspaper field and founded several small papers still in existence in the Ozarks region. Among them is the Reynolds County Courier at Centerville, now owned by R. L. and L. T. Daniels.

Council Holds First Meeting Of New Year

Monthly and yearly reports dominated the first 1951 meeting of the Sedalia City Council held Thursday night in the City Hall. Officers reports, monthly bills and collections were read to the council, approved and placed on file.

The council authorized the City Clerk to pay Lippert Brothers Construction company of Oklahoma City for work done and material used in sewer contracts 5, 6 and 7.

The Howard Construction company received the bid for the construction of a sewer in district 73.

Emery Ellsworth, chairman of the Public Building and Grounds committee, reported to the council on progress made in land procurement for the new municipal airport. (a complete report appears elsewhere on this page.) Mr. Ellsworth also reported the installation of street lights on highway 50 from the Katy underpass east to Marshall avenue.

The council approved payment of a personal injury claim against the city by Jack E. Morris. The claim was for $307.

Elmer Sumners, alderman from the third ward, submitted petitions from people in his district seeking a district sewer. These people desire lines from the alley between Boonville and Saline streets, east to Hill, and from Hill east to Depp avenue. The petitions were placed on file.

The council approved payment of an estimated $1407.35 for the purchase of cigarette stamps, license transfers and absentee ballots.

Land Secured For 'Muny' Airport Here

Plans Approved By CAA For Its Being Established

After many months of negotiating, including meetings with representatitves of the Civil Aeronautics administration, the Division of Resources and Development of Missouri, various property owners and the representatives of the City of Sedalia, purchase has been made of necessary land for the new Sedalia Municipal Memorial Airport.

Announcement was made today by Emery L. Ellsworth, chairman of Public Buildings and Grounds committee of the City of Sedalia, who has been handling the matter for the city, that final payment has been made by city counsular, Chester Wolfe, and himself to owners of land located east of Sedalia, namely Mrs. Talbie Williams, J. F. Richardson and Walter Rissler, executor of the late Belle Stephens estate.

Ellsworth reports the purchase of 10 acres of land from Mr. Richardson for $2,000; 80 acres from Mrs. Williams for $16,000, and 55.5 acres from Belle Stephens estate for $11,000, a total of 145.5 acres for $29,000.

Part From Government

Ellsworth said the Federal Government will pay for 25 per cent of the cost of the land, however, a bill is now in hands of President Truman increasing this to 50 per cent. "If this is allowed it will enable us to put more money into the improvement of the airport," said Mr. Ellsworth today.

The new site for the airport is located ½ mile east of city limits of Sedalia on highway 50, , section 1, range 21W, township 45, and city water will be run out to the airport, one-half of the cost to be paid by the government.

Plans and specifications were received this week and same are being checked over by Ellsworth's committee.

Buildup Proposed

The plans, which have been approved by the CAA call for an asphalt runway, modern up-to-date administration building with lobby that can be used for class rooms, etc., hangars and large parking space.

Ellsworth recently was in receipt of metal boundry makers, as well as a 55-ft. tower with beacon light, light bulbs and globes for the makers ,etc., from the

Attlee Sounds Warning

Briton Informs Empire Ministers War Still Possible

LONDON, Jan. 4—(AP)—Prime Minister Attlee told a closed meeting of Commonwealth prime ministers today "war certainly is not inevitable."

A pledge to work for peace came from the eight conferees, whose territories cover a quarter of the land of the earth.

A British spokesman who attended this opening session of a 10-day conference said the group also laid down three broad policy objectives:

3—A constructive approach to world crises, following certain courses of action and avoiding others.

Besides Attlee, those attending are Prime Ministers Louis St. Laurent of Canada, D. S. Senanayake of Ceylon, Robert G. Menzies of Australia, Sidney G. Holland of New Zealand, Sir Godfrey Huggins of Southern Rhodesia and Jawaharlal Nehru of India. Interior Minister T. E. Donges of South Africa is representing the ailing Prime Minister Daniel Malan.

Pakistan Minister Absent

Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan of Pakistan, angered by a refusal of his colleagues to discuss formally Pakistan's quarrel with India over the future of mountainous Kashmir, was absent. A dispatch from Karachi tonight reported plane seats booked provisionally for him and his party Monday have been cancelled. A message from Attlee failed to induce the Pakistan leader to change his mind.

Effects of this commonwealth split have still to be determined. However, speculation that Pakistan now might leave the commonwealth seems premature.

The United States as well as Britain wants to see Indian and Pakistan come to terms over Kashmir. They recognize that the big Moslem Pakistan and Hindu Indian armies which face each other there are draining the military strength of both nations at a time when all their resources are wanted to assume special responsibilities in defense of the free world.

Seek World Influence

A highly-placed informant said a main aim of the pow-wow is to reach an agreement on the problems of the world situation today, and on possible cures, and so increase the commonwealth's influence in world affairs.

There is no tendency among British leaders to conceal the fact that commonwealth unity on the major problems of the day would increase the influence of the members, not only in facing Russia, but also in facing the United States.

They insist, however, that the process of hammering out commonwealth unity in no way implies that they are ganging up on the United States.

President Has Hopes For Peace

While Optimistic Truman Plans More Stringent Controls

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—(AP)—President Truman today voiced fresh hope for peace in 1951—but he refused to predict that war will not come.

And he made it plain that the nation's growing rearmament program will bring just about total control of prcies and wages.

The President hinted that he'll ask Congress in his state of the union message next Monday to remove the curbs on his power to control farm prices. He already has strong power to control other prices, as well as wages, and he said he will use his power as soon as it is physically possible.

In a rapid-fire exchange with reporters at his weekly news conference, Mr. Truman said:

1—The United States is not at war but is carrying out an obligation for the United Nations. We won't predict the chances of avoiding war in 1951, but he sincerely hopes all the world's troubles can be settled by negotiation through the U. N.

2—No consideration is being given to bombing Red China, and no such action will be taken without asking approval of the U. N.

3—His staff is working on the tremenous job of setting up price controls all the time. He thinks it will be necessary eventually to have complete, across-the-board price and wage controls. As for rationing, the President said we'll cross that bridge when we get to it.

4—He hopes to get his program through the new Congress soon despite the success of Republicans and southern Democratis in restoring the power of the House Rules committee to ligenhole legislation. This action, taken yesterday, was interpreted widely as a blow to "fair deal" legislation.

Mr. Truman was asked at the outset what he thought of a charge by Senator Taft (R-Ohio) that he was delaying the work of Congress "for as much as two weeks" by holding up his state of the union message until Monday.

Mildly, the President said he didn't see how that could be. He said the record will show his program will be laid before Congress as promptly in past years. Anyhow, he added, it will take Congress another two weeks to organize.

Main Vanguard Moves South Followed Closely By Enemy

By ROBERT EUNSON

TOKYO, Friday, Jan. 5—(AP)—The last United Nations at Inchon today pulled out by sea just as Chinese Red troops approached the flaming docks of that port for abandoned Seoul.

Some troops were taken off by ships but the main U. N. force retreated southward overland. They were pursued by Chinese Communists moving south across the frozen Han river. The Han flows through Seoul.

Abandonment of Inchon, begun Thursday night, was completed at 2 a. m. Demolitions squads blew up everything in the harbor of value to the Communists.

Other Chinese Communist forces stabbed southward down the center of the Korean peninsula east of Seoul, in a drive aimed at cutting the allied route to the southeast.

Refugees Also Taken

Most of the United Nations forces that withdrew from Inchon by sea were port service troops, accompanied by thousands of Korean civilian refugees. Their destination was not disclosed.

A front dispatch said the withdrawal from Inchon was completed early Friday.

Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgeway, commander of the Eighth Army, sent a congratulatory message to Rear Adm. L. A. Thackery, senior officer of the United Nations naval forces off Korea's west coast who commanded the evacuation operation.

The message thanked the Admiral and all hands involved for unfailing Naval support.

Seoul in Ruins

Seoul already was abandoned by the allies. Its buildings were wrecked and burned. Most of its population, that once numbered about 1,500,000, had fled to the south.

AP Correspondent John Randolph, leaving with the last U. S. troops, reported the Chinese entered Seoul early Thursday, and hoisted the North Korean flag over the city hall an hour later, two infantry outfits and 24 tanks of the U. S. 25th division headed south across the Han river and blew the last pontoon bridge behind them.

Seoul's airport, Kimpo, 18 miles to the northwest, was evacuated without a shot about the same time. Huge quantities of fuel were put to the torch as the last plane cleared the once bustling field.

Most of the troops evacuated from Inchon were Army and Navy port personnel who had been manning the harbor installations since the U. S. Marines landed Sept. 1.

Associated Press Correspondent Tom Stone, reported from Inchon that as the last troops and refugees went aboard ship, demolition charges blew docks and marshalling yards high into the air.

Thackrey said the evacuation operation went off "smoothly and efficiently."

Judge Asks Aid For Shoplifters

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 — (AP) — Shoplifters take $10,000,000 worth of merchandise from New York stores yearly, a city judge said today in urging appointment of psychiatrists to aid judges in such cases.

Special Sessions Court Justice Irwin Davidson said many defendants are mentally ill, rather than criminally inclined, because many take items of little use or else can well afford to pay for them.

Strife Boils In Red China

Communists Kill Thousands In Move 'Educating' Masses

HONG KONG, Jan. 4—(AP)—Red China was reported today in the midst of a vast internal purge of dissidents, matching in intensity the speed with which the Communists are expanding their war machine.

One reliable press report said "thousands" have been executed in the past two months, while thousands of others have been subjected to the rigors of "re-education" camps.

Red Third Army to Canton

At the same time, Peiping was said to have ordered an ominous speed-up in military construction projects in South China around Canton. A confirmed report said crack Chinese Communist Third Field Army troops have been moving "monotonously" into Canton for two weeks, and are marking time there for "further instructions."

Much of all this is taking place perilously close to the British colony of Hong Kong.

The "reeducation" camps have been springing up throughout Red China, but chiefly in the always-dissident southern area. Reasons for the sudden purge, while not wholly clear, could well be these:

1. Pro-Nationalist guerrilla activity may have grown too strong for the Communists to handle except by the most stringent measures;

2. Peiping, perhaps having concluded that war is inevitable, may be "puting away" all elements which could disrupt the rigid internal controls the Reds would have to exert in wartime.

The English language newspaper Hong Kong Standard said it had information from Red China that the recent execution of thousands was part of a nationwide "anti-infiltration and anti-espionage" campaign.

"Those who lost their lives," the newspaper said, "included genuine Nationalist agents as well as former Nationalist civil and military personnel who had defected to the Communists larger landowners, students who resisted indoctrination, and others who were merely accused of being 'reactionaries, Nationalist spies or cultural agents'."

Reds Call Them Bandits

The Communists themselves reported Wednesday from Honkow, capital of the central China province of Hupeh, that 43,699 "bandits" were eliminated in that area in November and December.

Woman Seeks Return To Missouri To Face Mail-Fraud Charges

DALLAS, Jan. 4—(AP)—Madge Ray Whiteaker, 28, said today she wants to go back to Missouri to face four federal mails charges.

She had been held here since fall on a state charge of helping her husband break out of the county jail last May.

Mrs. Whiteaker signed papers today turning her over to the custody of federal officers for return to Missouri. Assistant U. S. District Attorney Lester said she is charged in Rolla, Mo., with theft of a check from the mails, theft of a money order from the mails, forging the money order and passing the money order.

He said the woman was indicted on the four charges in March, 1950. The crimes were committed in July, 1947.

She is charged here with smuggling a gun to her convict-husband, Fred, and fleeing with him through the back door of the jail. They were later arrested in Cincinnati. Whiteaker, an escaped convict from Oklahoma, was sentenced last November to 25 years for robbery here.

Bill Threatens GI Insurance Rights Of 10 Million World War II Veterans

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Jan. 4—An estimated 10,000,000 World War II veterans are in danger of losing their GI insurance rights.

This threat is contained in a bill which was passed by the House during the final special session of the 81st Congress. Although it didn't pass the Senate, it is all set for reintroduction and quick passage by the new 82nd Congress.

The bill also marks a sharp cutback from the World War II standard in the amount of benefits to be given many Korean vets and all future veterans.

It would give a free $10,000 policy to every man in service. And it would permit every veteran who had been made uninsurable by his service to buy a non-participating GI policy for the future.

But it would not permit the vast majority of veterans to hang onto their government insurance after they get out of service. Veterans organizations consider GI insurance, after service, to be one of the most valuable benefits which Uncle Sam has provided. This benefit has also been used as a prime recruiting argument by the services.

The most serious impact of the bill, however, would be on the estimated 10,000,000 World War II veterans whose GI policies have expired, but who have the right under present law to get new GI policies in the future. The bill which passed the House before Christmas eliminates that right by prohibiting the issuance of any more National Service Life Insurance policies.

It is the opinion of most insurance experts of the veterans organizations that the great majority of GIs who dropped their policies when they got out of service did so with the express plan of getting new GI policies some time in the future when they might get married or could better afford it.

Also in doubt in the House-passed bill is the future of the policies which have been kept in force but which haven't been converted to a permanent plan. There is some opinion that the bill would also eliminate that choice by GI policy holders.

Main supporters of the bill are the Bureau of the Budget and groups of private insurance company executives. It is the theory of Budget officials that giving the men policies without charging premiums, would eliminate much of the costly administrative problems which were involved in NSLI. And it would help take the government out of the insurance business inasmuch as the men would lose their policies as soon as they were discharged.

In answer to this, an American Legion spokesman points out that a record would have to be kept of the date every man left service. There would be costly litigation for the men who claimed that they were rendered uninsurable by service. There would have to be machinery to pay beneficiaries the $10,000 which would be spread over 10 years.

And further, opponents of the new bill point out, the so-called free insurance isn't insurance at all. It's simply a death gratuity and does not provide the same protection and benefits of true life insurance.

It has always been the opinion of many private insurance executives that GI insurance has been an unwise thing. They think Uncle Sam should not be in the insurance business at all.

Under the new bill, these executives would win an important point. While the men are in service they would have free protection. But as soon as they got out they would have to buy insurance from a private company if they wanted it.

The insurance experts of the veterans organizations hope some compromise will be worked out. They are for the free insurance while the men are in service, which would also be given the survivors of the Korean dead. And they might go along with having insurance end with a man's discharge. But they hope that the 10,000,000 veterans who have been thinking they could get a new GI policy any time they wanted it will not be cheated out of this right.

Patricia Quinn Is Bride Of Dr. Eisele

Thursday morning, December 28, at 11:00 o'clock, the marriage of Miss Patricia Anne Quinn and Dr. William Martin Eisele, of St. Louis, was solemnized at the Sacred Heart church in this city. The single ring service was read by the Rev. A. J. Brunswick, pastor of the church, before an altar setting of poinsettias, white roses and Christmas greenery.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Joseph Quinn, 917½ West Third street, and the late Mr. Quinn.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Garnett M. Eisele, of Hot Springs, Ark.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs Earl Paxton at the organ played liturgical wedding music and accompanied Mr. John VandeKamp, tenor, who sang, "Ave Maria," "Mother Beloved," and " O Holy Night."

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. James P. Quinn, the bride wore a classic style ivory satin gown, designed with madarin collar straight front panel and full skirt lengthenening into a cathedral train. Her veil was of handmade Bruxelles lace which belonged to her uncle, the late Monsignor William Quinn of New York, former National Director of the Propagation of the Faith. It was fashioned as a Juliet cap falling in panels to fingertip length and overlaid with imported English silk illusion. Her cascade bouquet was of gardenias and white roses.

Miss Janet Quinn, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Mrs. John J. Kniest, the former Mary McGrath, of Jefferson City, and Mrs. Guy Brownlee Rose, of Brookfield, Mo., were bridesmaids. The maid of honor and two bridesmaids wore identical dresses of red velveteen styled with fitted bodices, full skirts and shoulder-cape effect. Their open crown picture hats were of the same material and they wore red satin shoes and short white gloves. They carried small bouquets of gardenias and white roses.

Mr. G. Thomas Eisele, of Arlington, Mass., served his brother as best man and ushers were Mr. Joseph Quinn, of Milwaukee, Wis., brother of the bride, Mr. Gerald McLane, Mr. Walter Ebel and Dr. Robert McCrary, all of Hot Springs and Dr. Reden Baker, Little Rock, Ark.

Mrs. Quinn, mother of the bride, chose for her daughter's wedding, a two piece black silk dress with which she wore magneta velve hat and purse. Her corsage was a purple orchid. Mrs. Eisele, mother of the bridegroom wore a dress of purple satin with winter white hat and her corsage was a white orchid.

A buffet breakfast was served at the Sedalia Country Club to 150 guests. Decorations carried out the Christmas theme.

The couple left on a wedding trip and after January 10, 1951, will be at home at 6000 Arendes Drive, St. Louis. For travelling the bride wore a light gray suit with darker gray accessories.

Guests from out-of-town were: Mr. E. G. McGrath, Dr. Gene Galdden, Dr. and Mrs. Gene B. Starkloff, Mr. Stanley Musial, Miss Kathleen Trainor, Mr. Richard Best, Mr. and Mrs. John Senkosky, Mr. and Mrs. John Senkosky, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Roy Solari, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Abrams and Dr. Alan McAfee, all of St. Louis; Miss Betty Martin, Mrs. G. Thomas Eisele, Mrs. Walter Ebel and Mrs. Robert McCrary, all of Hot Springs, Dr. and Mrs. Stanley Applegate, Springdale, Ark., Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Buskirk and Miss Virginia Buskirk, Louisville, Ky., Mr. John J. Kniest and Mr. Nobert Schwartz, of Jefferson City, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Quinn, Keokuk, Iowa, and Mr. and Mrs. James P. Quinn, Jr., of Kansas City.

The bride attended Maryville college of the Sacred Heart and Saint Louis university, St. Louis, and has been employed in Anewthesia Department of the St. Louis City hospital.

A committee is to be named before which the student shall appear and this committee will decide whether or not to advance the loan.

Everyone attending the game will have a chance to see several leading ball players from this area in action. For Green Ridge such players as Keith Anderson, center; Brown and Wadleigh, guards and Welbern and Ream, forwards. For the Dynamos, Foster McGuire, Zink, Norman, Livengood and others that make this a well balanced ball club. The Moose club team will unveil some new faces, replacing Dale Whitfield and Dean Edwards, including John Mais, Jim Egbert, Bob Klink, and Harold Mickens. The CBC squad will be made up of Billy Elwell, Dick Harris, Neil Kemmeyer, Bud Thomas, Bob Jackson, and David Wells.

Officials for these games will be Ralph Dow and R. E. (Rocky) Carver. Both have given their services to help in promoting these games and making possible a larger sum to start the memorial fund.

Moose Takes Third Place At Windsor

The Sedalia Moose club nipped the Green Ridge Rams, 67-65, for third place in the Windsor American Legion Tournament at Windsor Friday night as "Big Jim" Egbert tipped in the winning goal with 35 seconds to play.

Green Ridge led by nine points at the end of the first two periods, but the locals came back strong in the second half to edge the Rams. Egbert led the Sedalians well balanced scoring attack with 18. John Mais, despite an injured nose, tallied 12 points to take second high scoring honors for the locals. Player-coach Bud Michales turned in a sparkling floor performance and rang up 11 counters.

Accuracy from the free-throw line paid off dividends for the Moose with Buddy Klink leading the way with six charity tosses out of the same number of tries.

Big Boone Anderson led the Rams with 22 points.

Machinists Quit Jobs At Machine Shops

Several machinists at the Brown's Machine Shop, 321 West Second street, quit their jobs Friday night after a meeting with management in which they sought an increase of their hourly rate of $1.19. Time and one-half over 40 hours, up to as high as 54 hours has been paid. The group seeking the increase is not unionized.

WPA Lake Open To Fishing By Helicopter Owners Only

It's a "public" lake by law and private by virtue of being partly on private property—that's the story of one of Pettis county's WPA-built lakes and so ruled by the attorney general, J. E. Taylor, in an opinion sent to Prosecuting Attorney William F. Brown. So if you don't have permission to cross the private property, you can't fish without a helicopter.

The lake in question is on the E. R. Kerfoot farm, about four miles west of the Windsor junction of highways 65 and 52 and back north about a mile from Highway 52.

Complete Easement Missed

Back in 1936 the lake was made possible through the WPA on land then owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest E. Breisch. They gave Pettis county an easement, permitting the lake to be built, but by some mistake, it was built on part of their land not covered by the easement.

Mr. Kerfoot had started to make arrangements to sell the property, and in examining the abstract, Lawrence Barnett, local attorney, found that the lake was on private property. Before he would pass on the abstract, he had Prosecuting Attorney Brown write for an opinion from the attorney general's office.

Kerfoot's Point Proven

As a result, Mr. Kerfoot has posted "KEEP OUT" signs. He declares it's private property, and Saturday his point was proven by the opinion handed down by the attorney general.

Assistant Attorney General Samuel M. Watson studied the law and came up with this conclusion: After more than ten years of use, the county has a right to the lake. And the public has a right to fish in it.

But Mr. Kerfoot also has a right to prevent anyone from going over his land to reach it.

You can fish it, in other words, if you have a helicopter handy.

CBC Lines-Up Heavy Action For January

Basketeers Meet House Of David, The Clark Twins

The Central Business college basketeers have been idle for the past two weeks but start court action again on January 7 when they play the Moose club in the Bob Tipton Memorial fund game. Their next outing will be away from home when they meet the Lake Ozark Lakers at Lake Ozark, Mo. In their first meeting this season the CBC quintet came out on the long end of a 74-31 score.

Clark Team Here Jan. 14

Their next game will be on the home court when they meet the strong Indiana Clark twins on January 14, and then on January 18 they are again at home when they play the House of David team. Both of these are what are called attraction teams and will provide good basketball as well as novelty shots and ball handling.

The Clark twins are made up of three sets of twins and a cousin Walton Clark. Robert, starred as a cager at Huntington college, and Ross are twins. The other twins are Don and Dale; and Joe and Jim. They are a personable and pleasant group of young athletes who are immediately liked by all with whom they come in contact.

House of David Keeps Busy

When the college quintet takes on the House of David they will be meeting a team that averages 125 games per season and have a winning percentage of .738. During the 1949-50 season they played a total of 145 games, winning 137 and losing 17. The manager of the "Davids" is George Anderson, who plays guard position. He has been in charge of the basketball team since 1937. He also plays and manages the House of David baseball team. The tallest man on the "Davids" team is Bob Wegner, center, who stands 6' 7" and has a great left-handed hook shot.

The game with the "Twins" is to be a Sunday afternoon affair starting at 2:30, and the game with the House of David will be on a Thursday night at 8:00 p. m.

Report of Theft From Purse

Mrs. Jack Sweeney, Bothwell hotel, reported to the police that a sneak thief had stolen $22.00 from her purse which was left lying in a private room at the Bothwell hospital Saturday evening. The robbery took place between 5:30 and 6:00 o'clock.

Injured As Auto Upsets

Lieut. Blanton To Hospital After Car Accident

Lieutenant Ernie Blanton, Los Angles, California, was injured painfully, but not seriously about 10:00 o'clock Saturday morning when the 1941 Buick sedan, driven by Second Lieutenant William B. Evans, Tulare, California, overturned on the John Walls curve, about 15 miles north of Sedalia on highway 65. The car was demolished.

Lieut. Blanton and Lieut. Evans are stationed at Ft. Sill, Oklahoma in the artillery, and were en route to Marshall, Mo., to spend New Year's with Lieut. Evans' family living there while he is in the service.

Lieut. Evans explained to State Trooper Pete Stohr he was driving at a fairly fast rate of speed when he came upon the sharp turn and as the car went around the curve it left the pavement and skidded overturning. The car landed on the side on the right side of the highway headed north.

State Trooper Stohr arrested Lieut. Evans on a charge of careless and imprudent driving to which he pleaded guilty in the Magistrate Court of Judge Harold W. Barrick. He was fined $50.00 and costs.

Lieut. Blanton was taken to the Bothwell hospital in the Ewing ambulance where he was treated by Dr. Carl Siegel and admitted to the hospital. He suffered several lacerations on the left side of his face and head, several which took stitches to close.

The car was towed to the Chamberlin Service station.

'Lady Bandit' Under Arrest

A "lady bandit" who terrorized Emporia, Topeka, and Thursday night Salina, Kansas, with holdups has been apprehended. The bandit was identified by the Kansas Bureau of Investigation as Ted Russell Pearsell, Ogden, Kansas, after his apprehension Friday.

The Salina robbery scene was at a liquor store in which a man and a "lady" bandit robbed the store of approximately $120. The man was identified as Morse Stanley Bradley, 43, apprehended near the scene with the loot in his pocket.

The "lady bandit" escaped during a gun battle in which Police Officer Roy Rodgers was wounded in the arm and shoulder. The bandit took a car and drove off, the car being found at the outskirts of the town later with woman's wearing apparel in it, the same as worn by the bandit.

Pearsell was later apprehended and according to the Kansas officers admitted his participation in the robberies and holdups.

Sedalia police had received a radio request to pick Pearsell up should he come here. The message stated he had been employed at Sedalia by a construtcion company, but did not name the company.

Near to Record On Fire Calls

Total Of 391 Up To Mid-Afternoon Saturday For Year

The fire companies had another busy Saturday when they answered five alarms resulting in little damage in one fire. The runs up to 2:25 o'clock in the afternoon brought the year total to 391 answered, the second largest number of runs ever made by the Sedalia fire companies. In 1936 the all-time record was set when the fire companies answered 427 calls.

Since 1936 when the 427 alarms were answered the fifteen year period as to alarms answered each year is a follows: 1937(301; 1938, 316; 1939, 359; 1940, 341; 1941, 293; 1943, 299; 1943, 390; 1944, 334; 1945, 307; 1946, 269; 1947, 321; 1948, 359; 1949, 310 and 1950, 391 up to Saturday afternoon.

Saturday's runs started at 7:30 o'clock in the morning when a "still alarm" was received to the Jenkins-Greer Motor Co., where a short in the electric wiring connected to the furnace caused some uneasiness. ...o damage resulted.

Sparks from a burning trash fire set fire to the roof of a barn at the residence of Charles Benn, 601 North Prospect avenue at 11:45 o'clock in the morning. Damages of about $50.00 resulted.

At 1:51 o'clock in the afternoon a grass fire at Ninth and Hancock caused a run. Burning grass at the Missouri-Kansas-Texaxs railroad crossing at Grand avenue, caused another run at 2:22 o'clock and while at this fire burning grass at 2501 South Grand avenue caused a run at 2:25 o'clock.

Severly Injured In Fall From Horse

Bruce C. Claycomb, route 1, Hughesville was seriously injured Friday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock when he fell from a horse while chasing a steer on the A. B. Gilmore farm, which is located two miles west of the Claycomb residence at Hughesville.

Mr. Claycomb had gone to the Gilmore farm on horseback to bring a cow and young calf back to his farm when he saw that a steer had gotten into his land. It was while chasing the steer trying to load it in a truck that the accident happened.

Mr. Claycomb was taken to the Bothwell hospital in Mr. Gilmore's car by two hired hands, Henry Blaylock and William Mueller, who were helping Mr. Claycomb round up the steer.

At the hospital Dr. W. A. Beckmeyer listed Claycomb's injuries as a brain concussion and a badly fractured right shoulder and said that he had remained unconscious for over an hour.

His condition was reported much improved Saturday.

Teen-Agers 'Flip' Car On North 65

Six teen-agers from Kansas City figured in a one-car accident on north highway 65 just north of Springdale cabins about 10:00 o'clock Saturday night. Only one was injured, the other five received nothing more than slight bruises.

The car, a 1950 Ford sedan was driven by Dwight Frank Gerred, 16, 718 West Thirty-Fifth street, Kansas City, and was owned by Poindexter and Sons, according to the youth.

Miss Mildred Fink, 17, 1648 Madison, suffered a fracture of the right collar bone. She was treated at the Woodland hospital and clinic by Dr. R. A. Enochs.

Others in the car were George Draffer, 16, 4047 Flora; Raymond Burns, 16, 3700 Jefferson; Miss Lois Connaughton, 17, 2518 Monroe; and Miss Heneriette Diez, 16, 610 Karnes avenue.

According to State Trooper Pete Stohr who investigated the accident, the car was being driven north and at the curve left the pavement going to the west shoulder of the highway. Pulling back the car swerved to the right side, struck a drain culvert, went up an embankment and rolled back on its top. About $1,000 damage resulted to the automobile.

The car was towed to Chamberlins Service station.

Damages Are Awarded In Suit

A damage suit by Walter B. Loveland, Jr. by next friend Walter B. Loveland, Sr. against Kenneth R. Connor was tried in the Circuit court Saturday afternoon with a judgment of $335.00 awarded to the plaintiff.

The petition allaged that the plaintiff was involved in an automobile accident on August 7 with the defendant and that the plaintiff sustained certain injuries for which damages were sought.

Attorney for the plaintiff was Frank Hayes.

Keith Bohon Much Improved

Interpreting The News

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The possibility that Russia will not give the Western world time to prepare the "position of strength" from which it hopes to negotiate peace seems to be an increasingly important factor in allied thinking.

There is less whistling in the graveyard about "war is not inevitable," and more question of whether it may come in this very year of 1951.

As clues to the answer develop they may produce a considerable change in the whole approach to rearmament. Weapons which have been held back for the sake of greater perfection may go into production.

There seems little doubt that recruiting will be stepped up, both in the United States and Europe, just as fast as training facilities can be developed.

Russia has said she will not tolerate inclusion of Western Germany in allied military defense, but the West, having no confidence that the proposed four-power conference will have any good results, is going ahead.

Two out of three experienced observers have told me recently that war will come to Europe in the spring. The third said no; that Russia still clings to the idea that Communist forces in Italy and France will be able to deliver those countries into the Cominform sphere when the time is ripe.

One of the other bases his fear of early war on the belief that the Cominform can no longer permit the defection of Yugoslavia; that the Balkan satellites will attack; that they alone will not be able to handle what he calls "Tito's army of 800,000 men, the best in Europe." And that Russian troops will then have to move in. And direct Russian military action anywhere in the world is generally believed to mean World War III.

The other informant cites the general situation, with Russia being forced to attack before Western rearmament progresses to the point where she cannot, or else give up any hope of world conquest for years to come.

Washington correspondents were quick to note yesterday the refusal of President Truman, who a few months ago was referring frequently to his confidence in ultimate peace, to express a view on the possibility of war in 1951.

It is obvious that there is a real emergency when Britain and France are actually placing their combat divisions in Europe under a foreign commander; when the United States is on the verge of universal military training; when Spain is about to be taken into the allied fold and possibly into the Atlantic treaty organization with its arms combine; when France and Germany are negotiating for unity in a common cause; when national sovereignties are being subordinated to international unity at a hundred points.

In 1948, when East-West differences over Berlin sent a wave of war jitters across the continent, I wrote that there would be no war that year, and probably in 1949. I wouldn't write that about 1951 or 1952 on the basis of present information.

Land Secured For 'Muny' Airport Here

C. A. A. and state of Missouri. It is estimated this would run in the neighborhood of $2,000 if purchased today, and will be a great asset to the airport for night flying.

It is expected bids will be asked for shortly covering the airport in general by Consulting Engineer William H. Guhman of St. Louis.

Ellsworth reports splendid cooperation from the C. A. A. in Kansas City and the airport committee of the State Division of Resources and development in Jefferson City as well as from the land owners throughout these past months.

Plans are to continue to maintain the use of the present airport near Dresden until the new field is ready. The new owner of the present field has consented to let the city use this site until the new one is completed.

Members of the Building and Grounds committee for the city in addition to Ellsworth, are Harry Moore, alderman from the first ward and Walter Smethers, alderman from the second ward.

May Re-establish The State Guard

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 4—(AP)—Missouri's old war-born state guard may be re-established within the next few months, Adj. Gen. John A. Harris said today.

Harris, brigadier general of the national guard, said re-activation of the old state militia will depend on whether the 35th division of the national guard is called into federal service during the present world emergency.

He said his plans for the state guard are based on an expectation the 35th will be mobilized within the next few months. But he has had no word from Washington that mobilization will be ordered for the famed division in which President Truman served as a captain in World War I.

Under Missouri law, the governor can order establishment of a state militia upon the recommendation of the State Military council. General Harris said his outline for re-activation of the guard will be submitted to the council for its consideration about the middle of this month.

Should the council act favorably, its recommendation would be passed along to the governor for his action if and when the 35th is mobilzed.

Wary of Wife With a Cudgel

LISBON, Ohio, Jan. 4.—(AP)—A motorist pulled into a gasoline station, sneaked a note and a dollar bill to the attendant.

The attendant read it, then phoned police. Police stopped the car on the road to East Liverpool and found the man's wife in the back seat holding a kitchen chair leg with a bent nail in the end. They waved him on, after disarming her.

The note read: "If I go over 50 miles an hour, she waves that club over my head."

6 States Hold Defense Council

DES MOINES, Jan. 4 — (AP) — Aeronautics officials of six states outlined their plans for civilian defense and mutual assistance at a discussion meeting today.

Norbert Locke, Iowa Aeronautics Commission director, said preliminary discussions indicate Minnesota has by far the most developed plan of any of the states represented here.

Locke said the best features of all of the various states' plans will be offered to Civilian Defense officials in the several states.

Locke said the group plans no formal organization but that it is seeking methods for coordinating aerial defense activities between the states.

Iowa private pilots soon will begin flying practice missions carrying plasma, nurses and doctors to Iowa cities and towns. The practice flights are in line with plans to use the state's 1,500 private planes for emergency relief if needed in case of bombings or other disasters. The same service could be given across state lines.

Also present at the session were L. L. Schroder, Minnesota Aeronautics Commissioner; James Ramsey, Nebraska director; Joe McLaughlin, Illinois director; Lynn Hanson, South Dakota director; and Clyde Pace, Missouri director.

For Three Billion Housing Program

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—(AP)—A new $3,000,000,000 federal housing program aimed primarily at meeting defense needs was announced on capitol hill today.

Chairman Maybank (D-SC) of the Senate Banking committee and Chairman Spence (D-KY) of the House banking committee said twin bills for the administration-sponsored program will be introduced in both houses of Congress next week.

Maybank said Senate hearings on the legislation will begin Jan. 15. He said he hoped to get the bill before the Senate by Feb. 5 or 6.

The four-point program provides for construction of community facilities in defense areas, government purchases of land and construction of houses where required to do the job, and new aid for the pre-fabricated housing industry.

It also includes government insurance for virtually all types of housing, but with emphasis on housing needed in defense areas.

Maybank emphasized that it is tne intent of the bill to leave the actual construction and operations of the program to states, cities, local communities and private enterprises wherever possible.

But he made it clear that the federal government will step in and acquire land, build houses for later resale, and take whatever other steps are necessary to insure housing in critical defense areas.

The final draft of the bill has not been completed.

AP Photographer Safe In Red Prison Camp

TOKYO, Friday, Jan. 5—(AP)—Frank Noel, Associated Press photographer who was captured by the Chinese Communists in Korea Dec. 1, is in a prisoner-of-war camp "in the safety of the rear areas," the Peiping radio said today.

In a broadcast heard in Tokyo, the Communist radio quoted a special Red correspondent with the Chinese forces as saying Noel was one of the prisoners who had signed a statement thanking the Reds for "courteous and kind treatment."

The broadcast gave Noel's Albany, N. Y., street address as 152 Western ave., apparently as supporting evidence that he was actually held.

It also said he was "an Associated Press correspondent with the rank of captain with the First Marine division."

Actually, Noel has no rank, but all correspondents have the assimilated rank of officers, and he was with the Marines when captured near the Changjin reservoir.

French Cadet Steals Plane; Dies In Crash

CALDWELL, Tex., Jan. 4—(AP)—A French cadet who couldn't make the grade as a pilot stole a Randolph Air Force plane today and, laughing "many times," sailed away to die in a crash.

The plane plunged into a thicket near here just about the time officers had predicted it would run out of gas.

A note indicating the cadet intended to crash the T-6 Texan trainer was found just after he climbed into it and took off.

Capt. Alan Jourdan, French liaison officer, said the cadet told him by radio: "I spend by last hours in the air and then I die."

Rent Control Is Off at Columbia

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—(AP)—Federal rent controls today were removed from 10 communities, including Columia, Mo., by Housing Expediter Tighe Woods upon certification by local governing bodies that there was no longer a shortage of rental housing.

Woods said that the decontrol of Columbia included remaining controlled portions of Boone County.

Condemned Man Lauds Chaplains In Death Letter

McALESTER, Okla., Jan. 4—(AP)—Max Eugene Klettke found "the finest men I ever met" in the state penitentiary, where he was executed tonight for murder.

Klettke, 25-year-old Lansing, Mich., hitch-hiker, made that statement in a letter written this afternoon to Deputy Warden Ernest Kirby.

The Michigan youth, electrocuted in the state's electric chair for his part in the Nov., 1948, slaying near Arcadia of Carl Beach of Corfu, N. Y., wrote two other letters yesterday.

One went to Father Bernard Collins, Catholic chaplain at the prison. The other was addressed to an aunt, Mrs. Dorothy Gkonos of Lansing, who saw him for the last time this afternoon.

His letter to Kirby was made public after the execution.

"I can't express myself in talking," Klettke wrote Kirby, "but I want you to know that you and Rev. Reed (R. R. Reed, Protestant chaplain at the prison) are the finest men that I ever met."
